14 CARGO VESSELS LAUNCHED IN DAY; 'A TELLING BLOW,' SAYS ROOSEVELT

'WE CANNOT LISTEN TO GOSPEL OF FEAR'

Three 'Ugly Ducklings' of Liberty Fleet Go Down Ways in Greatest Mass Launching Since World War.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt acclaimed today's launching of 14 cargo ships as "a telling blow at the menace to our nation," and emphasized his intention to protect American merchantmen "from torpedo, from shell or from bomb."

His congratulations on the largest mass launching since World War days were sent in a specially transcribed message to the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf yards, where the vessels were built.

America's shipbuilders, the President said, "have caught the true spirit with which all this nation must be imbued if Hitler and other aggressors of his ilk are to be prevented from crushing us."

"Gossip of Fear."

"We Americans as a whole," he continued, "cannot listen to those few Americans who preach the gospel of fear—who say in effect that they are still in favor of freedom of the seas but who would have the United States tie up our vessels in our ports. That attitude is neither truthful or honest.

"We propose that these ships sail the seas as they are intended to. We propose, to the best of our ability, to protect them from torpedo, from shell or from bomb."

The day was designated Liberty Fleet Day to mark the first launchings of emergency freighters in the Maritime Commission's vast construction program. Three of the Liberty ships, sometimes called "ugly ducklings" because of their workaday design, were on today's launching schedule.

The first of the 14 cargo ships slid down the ways at 5:06 a. m. (St. Louis time) in the Sun Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. yards at Chester, Pa.

It was the 8800-ton motorship Surprise. Sponsoring the vessel was Mrs. Walter F. George, wife of Senator George of Georgia. As the ship hit the water of the

U. S. ON THRESHOLD OF WAR, SECRETARY KNOX DECLARES

SAMUEL J. MANDELL

EX-CONVICT HELD; $16,500 REALTY FRAUD CHARGED

Samuel J. Mandell Accused in Indictment of Swindling Elderly Man and Wife.

Samuel Joseph Mandell, glib-tongued former convict and erstwhile manager of the defunct General Institute, Inc., correspondence school, was arrested today by detectives at the office of his new enterprise, the Midwest Realty Co., 4421 Easton avenue, on a suppressed indictment charging him with obtaining $16,500 under false pretenses in a real estate scheme.

The indictment, voted Thursday by the grand jury, charges Mandell and John A. Rosenfeld, a former salesman in the fake correspondence school who is still serving time for that offense, with swindling Charles F. Lesser, 75-year-old retired Pullman shop worker, and his wife, Sophie, who is ill, out of nine deeds of trust worth $14,500 and 33 shares of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney stock worth $2000, in September, 1938.

Mandell told police, following his arrest, that he had participated in the exchange of deeds as charged, and that it was "simply one of those things," with the property he turned over to Lesser failing to increase in value as expected. He said he did not operate the Midwest firm, but merely worked as a salesman there. However, police reported he seemed in full charge when they entered the place.

The Circuit Attorney's office for a month has been digging into Mandell's new real estate ventures, and Detective Sergt. Louis Shoulders, who made the arrest this morning with Detectives James Fitzgerald and Lester Shelton, said the inquiries led to the unraveling of the 1938 case.

Detective's Account.

The investigation disclosed, Shoulders said, that in September, 1938, Rosenfeld went to Lesser's home at 3925A Maffit avenue and said he understood Lesser had some real estate deeds. Rosenfeld told him he and Mandell operated the Henry B. Schiller Real Estate

Urging Neutrality Act Repeal, He Indicates Location of Defensive Waters—Says Nation Lacks Base in South Pacific.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Knox and Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, urged in separate declarations today that Neutrality Act restrictions be lifted to give the United States a free hand in protecting its world interests.

Knox asserted in an article inn the Foreign Commerce Weekly that "the United States stands today on the threshold of World War No. 2."

"I was against the neutrality acts at the time of their passage," he said. "I can only once again urge their repeal."

The magazine for which he wrote is a publication of the Department of Commerce.

Secretary Knox followed his declaration that war was near with an assertion that "it is imperative that we take every necessary measure to preserve our foreign commerce and the lives of our merchant seamen from destruction by commerce raiders."

Discussing the navy's role, he added, "We must both hunt down enemy raiders and at the same time convoy our ships to protect them against such hostile craft as elude our patrols.

"The proportion in which the two methods might be combined is, of course, a military secret of the first importance. . . . Suffice it to say that our naval experts are studying both offensive and defensive methods of protecting our shipping and, if necessary, will combine them into the most efficient system."

Indicates Defensive Waters.

He referred to President Roosevelt's promise to protect shipping in the "defensive waters" of the United States, and gave an indication of where those waters are by saying:

"There are three principal routes along which we must protect our ocean trade: the North Atlantic route to Europe, the sea lanes southward to both coasts of South America, and the long sweep across the Pacific westward to Australia, the East Indies and India."

In this connection he said the nation was "deficient" in naval bases in the South Pacific. Seaplane needs have been partly filled in these waters, he said, by establishment of bases on Johnston Island, Palmyra Island and Samoa, but "we still lack bases from which we can operate surface craft in the South Pacific."

The article was published during Knox's absence on an inspection of the naval base at Bermuda.

In a speech yesterday at Hamilton, he ranked Iceland, Newfoundland and Bermuda in that order of importance to the growing American defense system.

Of the work on Bermuda bases he said they would be ready "just as quick as God will let us; we'll put on all steam and more steam than ever when I get back."

"Discretionary Authority" Favored.

Senator Thomas said he was opposed to "tying the hands of the chief executive in this time of crisis" and proposed that President Roosevelt be given discretionary authority to scrap the neutrality legislation.

"We have been abandoning our neutrality step by step," Thomas, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, told reporters.

"There is not much left of the Neutrality Act now except the prohibitions against the arming of merchant ships, against sending ships into belligerent ports, and against Americans traveling on belligerent vessels.

"There are some parts of the neutrality law that might be retained, such as that providing Gov-

FATE OF TWO U. S. CITIZENS ON NAZI RAIDER IN DOUBT

German Foreign Office Has 'No Information' on Men Aboard Ship That Sank the Zamzam.

UNREPORTED MORE THAN 5 MONTHS

Conjecture in Washington That Tamesis May Have Been Sent to Bottom by Storm or Mine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The German Foreign Office informed the State Department today it had no information concerning the Nazi raider Tamesis or the fate of two Americans—Francis J. Vicovari and Ned Laughinghouse — wounded when the Egyptian steamship Zamzam was shelled and sunk by the raider in the South Atlantic on April 17.

Since more than five months have passed without a clew to the disappearance of the sea raider with the two wounded Americans aboard, fears were expressed here that the Tamesis was sunk, carrying Vicovari and Laughinghouse to their deaths.

The British navy has made no report of the sinking of the Tamesis or any other German vessel fitting its description, but it was conjectured that the raider may have been sunk in some unreported sea battle, hit a mine, or gone down in a storm.

Reported on Raider.

The State Department has made almost continuous efforts to obtain information of the two Americans. On Aug. 9 the German Government, in answer to inquiries by the American embassy in Berlin, reported Vicovari and Laughinghouse were believed to be still aboard the raider, although 115 days had passed since any word had been received.

Vicovari, a New Yorker who was co-leader of 24 young Americans en route to drive ambulances for the British and Free French forces in the Near East, was wounded when the Tamesis fired into the Zamzam when the Egyptian vessel was half way between Pernambuco, Brazil, and Capetown, South Africa.

The 24-year-old ambulance driver was just leaving his cabin when a shell plowed through the cabin, and steel fragments and splinters broke his leg, ankle and elbow.

No Details on Injury.

A German report revealed that Laughinghouse, a tobacco man from Wilson, N. C., had been wounded, but gave no details of how his injuries were suffered or their extent.

When the Zamzam hove to after being shelled, the 322 passengers and crewmen—including 148 Americans—were taken aboard the raider.

The following day all of the passengers and crew except Vicovari and Laughinghouse were transferred to the German motorship Dresden.

The raider immediately sailed away into the South Atlantic with the two wounded Americans and an Egyptian in the ship's hospital.

The other survivors were landed at St. Jean de Luz in German-occupied France after a 33-day voyage. All later were released.

NAZIS REPORT 665,000 REDS CAPTURED, FIVE ARMIES DESTROYED EAST OF KIEV; LENINGRAD BEATS BACK NEW ATTACK

4000 BESIEGERS KILLED AT BALTIC CITY APPROACHES, RUSSIANS ASSERT

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP).—Soviet Russian troops repulsed a Nazi attack at the approaches to Leningrad during the night as fighting continued along the entire front, it was officially reported today.

The Russians said their troops scored successes on the central front, where a sustained counter-offensive has been reported driving the Germans back to the west.

Earlier dispatches indicated that the defenders of the Crimea had mowed down thousands of Germans at the approaches to that peninsular Soviet republic, which is a key to control of the Black Sea.

Nazi Losses in Leningrad Area.

The midday communique announced that more than 4000 officers and men of enemy forces had been killed on the approaches to Leningrad and 66 aircraft and 34 tanks and other war material captured or destroyed. It added that more than 300 German officers and soldiers were killed on the central front and 24 tanks and other war equipment were destroyed.

German besiegers of Leningrad already have lost "tens of thousands of lives but they will not capture the city no matter how many more tens of thousands of German lives are lost," Vice Foreign Commissar S. A. Lozovsky, official spokesman, declared.

He said "incessant fighting, day and night, is raging on the distant approaches of Leningrad," and added: "The Nazis say they are advancing but even if they crawl they would already have been there. Leningrad is a hard nut to crack."

Air Force Bombs Tanks.

The Red air force, giving full support to the central front offensive, destroyed 30 airplanes last Wednesday and destroyed 65 tanks and 220 trucks, it was reported.

(The British radio in a broadcast heard in New York said the town of Zaporozhe on the east bank of the lower Dnieper was holding out against German operations in the Ukraine. The broadcast said the railway line between the Crimea and Zaporozhe had not been cut, but that Zaporozhe is being continuously shelled.

(Authoritative sources in London reported yesterday that 70,000 Germans—including parachute troops—were battling for possession of Crimea and its naval base, Sebastopol.)

"Field Strewn With Bodies."

The Germans were said to have launched a drive toward the southeast and the Crimea from an occupied village in the lower Dnieper valley. How far the invaders had progressed was not clear, but Russian sources said "the battlefield was strewn with bodies when the enemy managed to wedge into our advanced line of defense in a narrow sector of the front." This thrust was nullified by artillery supported Soviet counterattacks, the Russians said.

Mines, shells and bullets of the ground troops were supplemented by the bombs of Red airmen.

"The enemy lost no less than two infantry regiments, two thirds of his mine-thrower bat-

ITALY TO RATION BREAD, MOVES TO PROTECT LIRA

Heavy Taxation of Profits Among New Economic Measures—Crops Won't Meet People's Needs, Mussolini Says.

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—Italy's bread was ordered rationed today, starting next Wednesday, and a group of measures was approved by the Cabinet to conserve material, defend the lira and pay for the war through heavy taxation of profits.

The rationing was announced after Premier Mussolini informed the Cabinet that the 1941 grain crop was insufficient for the country's needs.

Most of the measures revised and reinforced previous decrees intended to discourage Italians from investing their cash in property or industrial securities rather than Government bonds with which Italy is paying for the war.

Cabinet's Action.

Chief among the Cabinet's rulings were these:

The basic daily bread ration was fixed at six and one-half ounces, with ordinary workers allowed 10 ounces, and workers at heavy tasks 13 ounces.

A uniform 20 per cent tax on profits from the sale of business securities listed on stock exchanges was substituted for a previous scale running up to 50 per cent. A new brokers' surtax of 4 per cent, to be paid by the buyer, was imposed.

Certain shares of private companies were ordered registered to prevent evasion of a 20 per cent tax on their profits.

Partly for military security against air raids and partly to stimulate industrial development, plants are to be decentralized in zones of new hydro-electric power in Southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia.

Foreigners were allowed to buy clothing and other consumer goods on the same basis as Italians, providing they have fixed residence in Italy.

Government and Fascist party agents and representatives of public institutions are to see that private concerns operate "effectively."

Crop Not Adequate.

Mussolini told the Ministers the harvest had been lower than forecast although slightly higher than 1940. He estimated the crop at 262,000,000 bushels.

"The 1941 harvest does not cover the needs of the population and the corn harvest is very deficient as compared to last year's while the needs for the armed forces and the occupied territories have increased," said a communique.

Italy, it was said, is required to send food to the occupied territories in the Balkans, particularly Greece.

In those provinces where Italians are accustomed to eating cornmeal mush, called polenta, instead of bread, the daily basic cornmeal ration was fixed at 10 ounces with 15 to 20 ounces allotted to workers.

The Cabinet also granted a tax exemption to the fishing industry to increase availability of sea food.

Il Tevere, Italy's outstanding anti-Jewish organ, called for dissolution of Jewish organizations, charging their leaders with "pernicious anglophile, defeatist and anti-Fascist propaganda."

Its attack followed reports that Fascist strongarm squads at Trieste had beaten persons, among them Jews, accused of defeatism by slander, jokes and criticism of the Fascist regime.

9 SHIPS REPORTED SUNK, POSSIBLY IN CONVOY; 114 SAVED, LANDED AT LISBON

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).

THIRTY officers and 84 members of ship-wrecked crews were landed from two destroyers at Lisbon today, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch reported.

The sailors refused to make any statements, the dispatch said, but it was reported a total of nine ships had been sunk.

(The Germans announced on Thursday that 11 ships from a convoy of 12 were sunk by U-boats off West Africa. The British have declareed they had no knowledge of such an action.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—The German radio said today German submarines had sunk 931,730 tons of British shipping in the three-month period ending Sept. 22.

FAILS POLICE EXAMINATION, GOES OUT AND SOLVES THEFT

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 27 (AP). — Hugh Sponsler, who failed in the examination for the State police force, made his mark as an amateur detective.

An electric clock was stolen from a private office. "I knew the thief didn't want it," Sponsler said, "so I went to a pawnshop and got it." Later, Sponsler saw a courthouse loiterer whose description fitted that of the pawner. Borrowing the man's pocket knife, he observed burns on the blade. The man admitted the theft and pleaded guilty in Court.

"The burns," Sponsler said, "were caused when the wires leading to the electric clock were severed."

3 AMERICANS IN CANADIAN AIR FORCE DEAD OR MISSING

Included in List of 42 Made Public Total Loss Since War Began, 799.

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Royal Canadian Air Force published today a casuality list of 42 men dead or missing, including three Americans, increasing total losses since the outbreak of the war to 799.

DAYLIGHT TIME ENDS TONIGHT IN SOME PARTS OF COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—Clocks will be turned back to standard time tonight in some sections of the nation which have been on daylight time.

With but few exceptions, daylight saving time will end officially in 40 per cent of the nation—in which some 52,000,000 persons reside—at 2 a. m. Sunday.

The Chicago area and some communities in Northern Indiana will continue on daylight time until Oct. 26.

40,000 GERMANS REPORTED IN HOLLAND TO ESCAPE RAIDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—The official Dutch Aneta agency quoted a private letter from The Netherlands today as saying that 40,000 German evacuees had arrived in Amsterdam from the Rhineland, indicating the effect of bombings by the British air force.

BERLIN DECLARES UKRAINE VICTORY UNPARALLELED IN MILITARY HISTORY

Communique Announcing End of Battle Says Not Even Small Units Escaped—884 Tanks, 3718 Guns as Taken.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—A victory "unparalleled in history" in the great battle of Kiev was claimed today by the German high command, which declared 665,000 prisoners had been rounded up in the destruction of five Soviet armies.

The high command previously had announced that four trapped armies were being destroyed east of Kiev. That five armies were involved instead of four, Germans said, was a high command secret intended to confuse the Reds on the Russian strength which escaped before the encirclement was closed.

Communique on Battle.

The communique, issued from Adolf Hitler's headquarters, said:

"The big battle near Kiev is finished. In a two-sided encirclement of a tremendous region we succeeded in uprooting the Dnieper defense, destroying five Soviet armies without permitting even small units to escape the encirclement.

"In the course of operations carried out with the closest collaboration of the army and air force a total of 665,000 prisoners were taken, 884 tanks, 3718 pieces of artillery and unsurveyable quantities of other war material were captured or destroyed. The opponents' bloody losses again were very high.

"Thus a victory was won which is unparalleled in history. The exploitation of these successes is in full swing.

"Greatest Destructive Battle."

Germans called the fight "the greatest destructive battle in world history."

Of the Russian armies trapped in the Kiev region, virtually all were declared to be either dead or captured—annihilated, in the full sense of the word as used by German military leaders.

The list of prisoners had risen 153,000 in the last 24 hours. The high command announced yesterday a total of 492,000 Russians captured, later raising it to 574,000 in a second special communique of the day.

One spokesman emphasized the "comparatively small" number of Russian tanks knocked out of the fight and said that "would seem to be an indication that Russian material reserves indeed are diminishing."

The report that more than 3700 cannon had been seized or destroyed was held to have a vital bearing on the future course of the war, especially in view of the siege of the Leningrad munitions center and the drive deep into the Ukraine industrial region.

"These guns can hardly be replaced in time for any decisive influence on this war," it was asserted.

Nazis Reported at Volga Source.

Nazi spearheads driving ever deeper into the Soviet Union were reported by informed quarters at the headquarters of the Volga River 200 miles southeast of Leningrad. Nazis said the source of the Volga River, near Seliger Lake, had been in the hands of Germans

TODAY'S WAR NEWS

BERLIN—Hitler's command announces capture of 665,000 Russians and destruction of five Red armies east of Kiev; victory declared to be unparalleled in history; two ships reported bombed in air raid near Hull.

MOSCOW—Russians report Leningrad defenders have beaten back new attack, say Germans were mowed down in attack on Crimea.

LONDON — R. A. F. reports downing 21 planes, losing 14 in Channel area fighting; Cologne and other targets in Germany, docks at Calais bombed.

ROME—Italy to ration bread after Wednesday, imposes new taxes and acts to defend lira.

R.A.F. Pilot Blinded in Battle Goes 3600 Miles to Doctor, Finds He Died

NILES, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP).—A Royal Air Force pilot, blinded in an air battle over Northern Ireland, journeyed 3600 miles from England in hopes that Dr. Fred N. Bonine, noted eye specialist, could restore his sight.

Today the flyer, 37-year-old Vernon C. Willard, learned on his arrival that Dr. Bonine had died Aug. 22.

"He was my last hope, for all the other doctors have told me that it would be impossible to restore even partial sight," Willard said.

The former pilot, a native of South Bend, Ind., was accompanied here by Ace, an 11-year-old dog that was trained to become his "eyes."

Although saddened by the news that his search for Dr. Bonine had failed, Willard said he probably would visit the State School for Blind at Lansing, Mich., and begin to adjust himself to a new way of life.

Willard was orphaned at the age of 6 and five years later was adopted by a family at Niles. When he came of age he went to California and decided to make aviation a career. Later he went to England as a test pilot.

"My service in the war was short," he said. "I was shot down four times in three months. The fourth was the last because splinters from the plane tore out three of my ribs and also caused my blindness."

POLICE JUDGE KEEPS PROMISE; DRIVER GETS SIX MONTHS

About a month ago Leon Carter, Negro taxicab driver, was fined $10 and costs for speeding by Police Judge George J. Grellner. When Carter said he had no money, Judge Grellner stayed the fine, but suspended Carter's driver's license for 13 weeks with the admonition: "If I catch you driving anytime in those 13 weeks, I promise to give you six months in the Workhouse."

When Carter was brought before Judge Grellner today to face charges of careless driving, driving on the wrong side of the street and operating an unlicensed cab, Judge Grellner informed him: "I am a man who keeps my promises," and gave him the six-month sentence.

He added a $300 fine on a charge of driving while the license was under suspension, and $150 in fines on the other charges. Carter said it was the first time he had driven since his last appearance in court.

REDS WITH HOME-MADE TOOLS ASSEMBLE PLANES FROM U. S. IN FOUR DAYS

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).

THE crew of a British coastal command plane, the first to fly into Russia as far as Moscow, reported today that with home-made assembly tools the Russians had put a consignment of American-made warplanes into the air within four days of delivery.

The Air Ministry said the proper tools were due to arrive in a week or two.

Two Sentenced to Death in Reich For Tuning in Foreign Broadcasts

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP). — Two persons were sentenced to death by German courts today for listening to foreign broadcasts and spreading the news they heard.

These were the first known instances of the death sentence for tuning in on foreign stations.

DNB, official news agency, said one of the condemned, Johann Wild, 49 years old, of Nuremberg, "intentionally arrayed himself on the side of Germany's enemies by regularly listening to lying, agitating radio broadcasts."

On the basis of what he heard, the agency asserted, he wrote a pamphlet containing "invectives against the Fuehrer and other leading state personalities as well as the army."

WAVELL ON WAY TO IRAN, POSSIBLY TO REMOVE HITCH IN AID TO RUSSIA

General on Urgent Mission, Legation Announces — Speculation Continues as to Whether British Will Send Troops.

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP).—German soldiers have not set foot in Crimea, S. A. Lazovsky, official Russian spokesman, declared in a press conference today. "All the fighting for Crimea takes place outside Crimea," he said.

TEHERAN, Iran, Sept. 27 (AP).—The British legation said today that Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in chief in India, was flying here on an urgent, secret mission. The legation acknowledged that many difficulties had been encountered in arranging movement of supplies into Russia.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Speculation continued today on the question whether Britain plans to send troops from India and the Middle East to aid Russia in defending the Caucasus.

The need for speedy British help was emphasized by the German attack on the Crimea, but the British kept the Axis guessing as to what actual forces and material might be sent through the Iran door into the Caucasus.

Supplies Reported on Way.

An authoritative source said "large quantities" of military supplies were moving toward the Caucasus from the Persian gulf but added there was nothing to indicate "immediate Allied operations" in Russia's rich oil region.

Soviet losses in the fighting east of Kiev "undoubtedly were severe," authoritative sources here conceded, but they declared German claims of the capture of 665,000 prisoners "probably were much exaggerated."

There was some doubt here whether the German attack on the Crimea peninsula was developing into a full-scale operation or merely a sideshow to operations toward Kharkov, in the center of the industrial Donets River basin, and farther east along the Black Sea coast.

Signs Britain Plans to Act.

Observers noted these signs that Britain was planning the fullest help for Russia:

1. Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in India, was reported about to meet Col. T. Novikov, Russian commander in Teheran, the Iranian capital.

2. Both Gen. Wavell and Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, British Middle East commander, have been in London in the last two months for conferences with Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial staff.

3. The announcement that Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, British Middle East political and economic co-ordinator, is in London for conferences with Churchill and the Cabinet.

4. Reports that British troops and supplies are being landed constantly at Bandar Shahpur, Iranian port at the head of the Persian gulf, and are moving swiftly northward.

5. Appointment of a transport expert, Brig. Gen. Sir Godfrey Rhodes, as director of transportation through Iran. The railroads of Iran would play an important part in dispatching an expeditionary force to Russia's help.

HITLER NAMES SECURITY HEAD FOR BOHEMIA AND MORAVIA

Richard Heydrich to Relieve Former Foreign Minister, Who Retires to Regain His Health.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—Adolf Hitler today appointed Reinhard Heydrich, chief of security and righthand man to Heinrich Himmler, Reichs protector in Bohemia and Moravia.

Heydrich succeeds Baron Constantin von Neurath at Prague.

The official announcement said Von Neurath, former Foreign Minister, had requested the Fuehrer to "temporarily relieve" him of his duties in former Czecho-Slovakia until he has regained his health.

KIDNAPED WIFE OF BRITON IN PEIPING REPORTED FOUND

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—A British radio report heard today said Japanese police had found Mrs. Danville Clark, Japanese-born wife of a British Embassy press attache, at Peiping, and were making arrangements for her release from "Japanese extremists who had abducted her."

Mrs. Clark had been missing for a week.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky informed Gen. Charles de Gaulle yesterday that the Russian Government recognized him as the Free French leader and was prepared to give him "every help and assistance in the common cause against Hitlerite Germany and her allies."

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE ON LAUNCHING OF 14 SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).

My fellow Americans:

This is a memorable day in the history of American shipbuilding—a memorable day in the emergency defense of the nation. Today, from dawn to dark, 14 ships are being launched—on the Atlantic, on the Pacific and on the Gulf and among them is the first liberty ship, the Patrick Henry.

While we are proud of what we are doing, this is certainly no time to be content. We must build more cargo ships and still more cargo ships—and we must speed the program until we achieve a launching each day, then two ships a day, fulfilling the building program undertaken by the Maritime Commission.

Our shipbuilding program—not only that of the Maritime Commission, but of the Navy—is one of our answers to the aggressors who would strike at our liberty.

I am speaking today not only to the shipworkers in the building yards on our coasts, on our Great Lakes and on our rivers—not only to the thousands who are present at today's launchings—but also to the men and women throughout the country who live far from salt water or shipbuilding.

I emphasize to all of you the simple, historic fact that throughout the period of our American life, going way back into Colonial days, commerce on the high seas and freeedom of the seas has been a major reason for our prosperity and the building up of our country.

To give you one simple example: it is a matter of history that a large part of the capital which in the middle of the past century went into the building of railways and spread like a network into the new undeveloped areas across the Mississippi River, across the plains and up into the Northwest was money which had been made by American traders whose ships had sailed the seas to the Baltic, to the Mediterranean, to Africa and South America and to Singapore and China itself.

Through all the years after the American revolution your Government reiterated and maintainned the right of American ships to voyage hither and yon without hindrance from those who sought to keep them off the seas or drive them off the seas. As a nation we have realized that our export trade and our import trade had a definitely good effect on the life of families, not only on our coasts but on the farms and in the cities a hundred or a thousand miles from salt water.

Since 1936, when the Congress enacted the present merchant marine law, we have been rehabilitating a merchant marine which had fallen to a low level. Today we are continuing that program at accelerated speed.

The shipworkers of America are doing a great job. They have made a commendable record for efficiency and speed. With every new ship, they are striking a telling blow at the menace to our nation and the liberty of the free peoples of the world. They struck 14 such blows today. They have caught the true spirit with which all this nation must be imbued if Hitler and other aggressors of his ilk are to be prevented from crushing us.

We Americans as a whole cannot listen to those few Americans who preach the gospel of fear—who say in effect that they are still in favor of freedom of the seas but who would have the United States tie up our vessels in our ports. That attitude is neither truthful nor honest.

We propose that these ships sail the seas as they are intended to. We propose, to the best of our ability, to protect them from torpedo, from shell or from bomb.

The Patrick Henry, as one of the liberty ships launched today, renews that great patriot's stirring demand:

"Give me liberty or give me death."

There shall be no death for America, for democracy, for freedom! There must be liberty, world-wide and eternal. That is our prayer—our pledge to all mankind.

14 SHIPS LAUNCHED; 'A TELLING BLOW,' SAYS ROOSEVELT

Delaware River, Mrs. George released six carrier pigeons that flew south with news of the successful launching for the Maritime Commission in Washington.

Four hours later in Baltimore, the S. S. James McKay, a cargo freighter of the Maritime Commission's C1B type, last of five constructed for the Lykes Brothers' Steamship Co., was launched at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Sparrows Point yards. Mrs. Genevieve Lykes Duncan, daughter of J. M. Lykes of Houston, Tex., company president, christened the vessel.

Then at noon the first of the Liberty ships, the Patrick Henry, backed down the ways at the Bethlehem-Fairfield plant in Baltimore, christened by Mrs. Henry Wallace, wife of the Vice-President.

Admiral Emory S. Land, Maritime Commission chairman, declared the day's launchings were "symbolic of the determination of the people of the United States that human liberty shall not perish from the earth."

"Our Pledge to Mankind."

Roosevelt noted that the first of the Liberty ships was called the Patrick Henry, and he recalled that revolutionary patriot's famous: "Give me liberty or give me death."

"There shall be no death for America, for democracy, for freedom," the President asserted. "There must be liberty, world-wide and eternal. That is our prayer—our pledge to all mankind."

The shipbuilding program must be speeded to an eventual goal of two vessels every day, Roosevelt asserted.

The navy this week also reached the fastest launching pace since the start of the two-ocean construction program. Five destroyers and the battleship Massachusetts slid into the water.

Commission's Program.

The Maritime Commission's present construction program calls for the completion of approximately 1400 merchant ships by the end of 1943, with the President's two-a-day goal expected to be reached next spring.

Designed for rapid construction and lacking the speed and refinements of the C-boats, the Liberty ship has an overall length of 441 feet 6 inches, a beam of 57 feet, a total displacement 14,100 tons and will carry a general cargo of 9146 tons. Its speed approximates 11 knots.

The Liberty ships are slower than any of the three designs of C-boats, the backbone of the Maritime Commission's long-range program. Of those three types, the C-3 is the largest, about 12,500 deadweight tons, with a normal sea speed of 16½ knots, but capable of traveling considerably faster. The C-2 is of 8656 deadweight tons, with a normal sea speed of 15½ knots, while the C-1 is of 7500 deadweight tons and travels normally at 14½ knots.

Contracts for the construction of 312 "ugly ducklings" have been awarded. Of these, 112 are scheduled to go to the British under the Lease-Lend Act.

On the eve of Liberty Fleet day, Britain's Minister of War Transport, Lord Leathers, and Sir Arthur Salter, head of the British shipping mission in the United States, sent congratulations to the commission.

Lord Leathers said the mass launchings "symbolizes for us and our allies the cause for which we are fighting."

Salter said the Liberty ships were the first "of a great fleet of ships, themselves dedicated to the cause of liberty."

Two Destroyers and Minesweeper Launched in New England.

BOSTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Home of shipbuilders since the square-rigger era, New England celebrates Liberty Fleet Day today by launching two destroyers, a minesweeper and an oil tanker to boost its new naval and merchant ship construction since Jan. 1 beyond the 200,000-ton mark.

The tonnage turned out in this one section of the United States during the nine-month period comprises:

A 35,000-ton battleship, nine destroyers, eight submarines, two cruisers, two seaplane tenders and a host of other vessels, including cargo ships, minesweepers, patrol craft, tank barges, trawlers and other fishing craft.

The newest destroyers, the Cowie and the Knight, were built at Boston Navy Yard, which, since Jan. 1, has launched four other destroyers and two seaplane tenders.

The new tanker, the 12,160-ton Sinclair Superflame, was built in less than four months at the Quincy yard of the Bethlehem Steel Co., where the battleship Massachusetts went down the ways Tuesday.

ITALIANS ADMIT R. A. F. RAIDS ON SICILIAN, LIBYAN PORTS

British Lost Four Planes in Attacks on Palermo, Tripoli and Bengasi, Rome Says.

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Italian high command acknowledged today new British air raids on the Sicilian port of Palermo and the Libyan harbors of Tripoli and Bengasi but said they cost the English four planes.

Without any indication of the scope of the action, the communique said German detachments on the Sollum front in North Africa "captured men and British motor vehicles."

The British reported patrol activity was renewed around the British-held Libyan port of Tobruk as their batteries shelled Axis siege forces.

DOXEY WINS PAT HARRISON'S SEAT BY MAJORITY OF 818

Official Count in Democratic Primary; Collins Has Not Indicated Whether He Will Contest.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 27 (AP).—An official tabulation today gave Representative Wall Doxey a majority of 818 votes over Representative Ross Collins in the Democratic primary race for the unexpired term of the late Senator Pat Harrison. The Secretary of State's office announced that the tabulation on last Tuesday's special primary gave Doxey 59,556, Collins 58,738.

Collins had challenged unofficial counts showing Doxey the winner but did not indicate immediately whether he would contest the official figures.

Democratic nomination is the equivalent of election to the term expiring in January, 1943.

20 REPORTED SHOT FOR SABOTAGE ON FRENCH RAILWAYS

Belgian Paper Tells of Execution of 'Reds'—Nazis at Paris Announce Putting Two to Death.

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP).—German occupation authorities announced they shot two more Frenchmen this morning.

The announcement said the two were executed after being convicted of illegal possession of arms. They were tried by a military court and condemned to death yesterday.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Brussels newspaper Bruesseler Zeitung carried today an announcement attributed to the German command of occupation forces in Belgium and Northern France that 20 "Communist" hostages were executed yesterday. The nationalities of the executed men

The reason given for the mass shooting was that Communists were believed to have stolen a large quantity of high explosives from a storage place in Northern France Sept. 23 and used it to attack French trains and German army transports the night of Sept. 25.

France Wants No Help, Deat Tells Americans.

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP).—Marcel Deat, newspaper editor and one of the leading advocates of collaboration between France and Germany, said yesterday in a statement for Americans that France, contrary to American belief, wants no help.

Deat, who was wounded by an assassin Aug. 28 along with Pierre Laval, former Vice-Premier of the Vichy Government, declared the United States labors under three misconceptions toward France and in turn asked America three questions.

"The first misunderstanding is the American idea that France wants help," Deat said. "We have finally learned we must become strong enough to help ourselves.

"The second misunderstanding is the ludicrous idea that we are enslaved or tortured. The fact is we were beaten militarily exactly as we deserved to be after 20 years of confusion and weakness. . . . Our Marshal (Henri Philippe Petain) made what must have been the most favorable armistice terms in history for a nonexistent army. Does America realize that this period of armistice is only temporary—that it will end when the threat of invasion ends? The armistice terms are scrupulously followed by both sides. I feel that only a person who is traitorous or unfaithful by nature would disapprove of our keeping loyally to terms which we accepted in exchange for the right to maintain a government in France and keep our empire for ourselves. . . .

"A third American misunderstanding is that we want someone to occupy our empire for us. We do not. We succeeded in defending Dakar and we nearly succeeded with Syria. We are now strong enough to do the job ourselves and we are going to do it."

Deat said Frenchmen want America to answer three questions: Why does the United States regard itself as threatened? Why is the United States, which two years ago pursued an independent policy, now apparently absorbed in European, Russian and Oriental problems? Who dominates British-American relationships, the United States or Britain?

Declaring "the one thing we dread now is some foreign plan to use France as a battleground," he concluded:

"If America thinks of France as striving to wipe out a quarter century of mistakes by a self-directed return to the old French character, she will be near the truth."

R.A.F. CLAIMS 21 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN IN CHANNEL AREA

Admits Loss of 14; Raid Center at Amiens, France, Bombed.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Far-flung fighting, which raged for hours today over Northern France and the English Channel, British flyers were declared authoritatively to have shot down 21 German planes, with a loss of 14 of their own.

Bombing operations against occupied France, aided by good weather ,included a "successful" attack on the railway center at Amiens, it was said.

Cologne and other objectives in Western Germany were raided by British bombers last night, the Air Ministry said.

"Docks at Calais and Dunkerque also were bombed," a communique announced. "One of our aircraft is missing."

At least 20 German bombers and fighters were destroyed or damaged when low-gliding British bombers attacked 50 of them parked on an airdrome, the British said in a supplementary announcement.

The Government reported little German air activity over England last night. Anti-aircraft guns were in action for a time in the London area, but no bombs fell in the city.

Schools For Germans In Croatia.

ZAGREB, Sept. 27 (AP).—German schools are to be established throughout Croatia wherever there are 20 or more German children within a radius of five miles.

R.A.F. PILOTS USE TRENCH SHELTERS AT RED AIR BASES

Share Quarters With Russians—Paper Says Warm Companionship Exists Among Men.

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP).—Royal Air Force units on the Russian front have entrenched themselves with their Russian comrades-in-arms, coming out of their earthworks and taking to the sky whenever necessary to rout the Germans, according to a descriptive dispatch published today by the Russian army newspaper, Red Star.

The story was headlined: "Soviet and English flyers routing Fascists Side by Side."

"The wide field, surrounded by hills, seems deserted but actually it is seething with life," said the dispatch. "The flyers are in deep trenches—some British, others Soviet.

"Standing groups of pilots are studying maps of possible places for aerial battles.

"Bushes are scattered over the field—these camouflage the fighters. On the left are the Russian Little Falcons, or 'Split Seconds,' and straight ahead are the Hurricanes, pride of British aviation.

"Comrades of air flights, they warmly greet each other and converse with the aid of an interpreter."

The British Air Ministry announced last night that R. A. F. fighter planes escorting Soviet bombers on the Russian-German front had destroyed two more Nazi craft, bringing their total to nine. The British said only one of their planes had been lost in eastern operations.

teries and part of his artillery, and was forced to retire to his starting point," a dispatch asserted.

Only two narrow land routes are available for an invasion of Crimea—the four-mile-wide isthmus of Perekop and a causeway across the shallow Sivash Sea to the east.

Odessa Still Holding Out.

Maj. Gen. Petrov, the defender of Odessa, radioed the official Communist and government organs that the city still held firmly against every German and Rumanian assault, and estimated that the attacking divisions had lost as much as three-fourths of their original strength.

Despite the arrival of heavy German reinforcements in artillery, bombers and mine throwerss, he reported, major Russian positions still were unbreached while the defenders of Odessa—regular troops, farmers, laborers, Cossacks—simply "dug in deeper."

"The battles for Odessa," he summed up, "have forged a mighty and gallant family of defenders. The difficulties are immeasurable, but among the heroic defenders of the city there are no cowards, no whimperers . . . They know that the whole world is watching their struggle. The defenders of Odessa will fight to the last drop of their blood."

Reds Report Air Success.

The early morning communique once more claimed the edge in aerial warfare.

"On Sept. 24," it said, "our air force destroyed 118 German aircraft. Our losses were 29 planes."

(DNB, German news agency, reported the Nazis had shot down 407 Russian planes from Sept. 19 to 24. Soviet communiques have listed 444 German planes as destroyed and acknowledged the loss of 130 Russian aircraft in that six-day period.

Leningrad Radio Reports Finnish Attack on Defenses Repulsed.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Reuters quoted the Leningrad radio today as saying the Finns had lost 600 men and "a great number of guns, trench mortars and machine guns" in an unsuccessful attack on the defenses of Leningrad.

"Our fire from close range stopped the advance," the radio was quoted as saying, adding the fighting had raged two days.

In other engagements it was said that "during the last few days a tank unit killed more than 1500 officers and men." The radio also said a unit commanded by Comrade Denisov annihilated a picked Nazi regiment from Hamburg in three days of fierce fighting. Another unit was said to have killed 500 German soldiers and captured a large transport column.

BASIS PROPOSED TO BRITAIN FOR REPAYMENT OF U.S. AID

Assistant Secretary of State Acheson So Informs House Subcommittee, but no Details Are Disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The basis for repayment under the first big lease-lend agreement since the act was passed last March has been forwarded to the British Government, but House members who were told about it said today they were still unaware of its terms.

Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State, told a House Appropriations subcommittee considering the new $5,985,000,000 lease-lend proposal yesterday that the "basis of discussions" with Britain regarding conditions of repayment for American supplies had reached the point where Britain could be asked how it felt about them.

He told the subcommittee also that several agreements already had been concluded with Latin-American governments. These are believed to be with Paraguay, Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The terms of those agreements have not been made public, nor were they furnished to the subcommittee, members said.

Under the Lease-Lend Act, the President may "sell, transfer title to, exchange, lease, lend, or otherwise dispose of" any military equipment or supplies of any kind to any government "whose defense the President deems vital to defense of the United States."

President Roosevelt in first proposing the lease-lend program said he wanted to take the dollar sign from aid to nations resisting Axis aggression and make no more money loans such as were made in the World War.

He has never stated definitely how he expected Britain or any other country benefiting under the aid program to pay back. He has indicated, however, that it would be largely an exchange proposition, with beneficiaries repaying in kind with goods or other commodities needed by the United States after the war.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, also appeared before the subcommittee yesterday to testify regarding allocations from the new fund for maintenance, operations, repairs and charter hire of ships needed to transport lease-lend goods.

Land told the group that between 13,000,000 and 14,000,000 tons of commercial shipping had been sunk since the start of the war. This, he said, was about 25 per cent of the world tonnage existing when the conflict started in September, 1939.

Seliger Lake is 200 miles northwest of Moscow and about 70 miles west of the Leningrad-Moscow railway, the trunk line which is a German objective in the drive to sever communications between those cities.

A long-distance scouting party was said to have reached the headwaters of the Volga, which is European Russia's longest and most important river, on Sept. 9 and found the spot vacated by the Russians. The Volga empties into the Caspian Sea 2325 miles to the southeast.

(The Russians reported yesterday fighting was still raging near Novgorod, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad and about halfway between the besieged northern metropolis and Seliger Lake. The Reds, who abandoned Novgorod a month ago, asserted they had repulsed all German attempts to cross the Volkov River.)

Leningrad Waters Shelled.

On the Leningrad front, the news agency DNB said, German heavy batteries have put the waterways to the besieged Russian city under telling fire.

The Leningrad waterfront itself, as well as the harbor of the big Kronstadt naval base and the port of Oranienbaum, on the narrow neck of the Finnish gulf west of Leningrad, are under the range of German guns, DNB reported.

A cruiser of the Russian Kirov class, already bombed, was hit by German shells yesterday and broke into fire after a terrific explosion, it said. A Soviet battleship was forced to shift its position and a submarine was abandoned in sinking condition.

The German high command reported new air smashes against Moscow and Tula, a rail and arsenal center south of the Soviet capital.

Other sources, dealing with the continuing fighting from Moscow South, said the German armies and air squadrons had dealt a telling blow to the rail and road systems by which Russia hoped to supply its still resisting forces.

These systems are heaviest in the conquered Ukrainian areas west and southwest of Kharkov, toward which the Ukrainian advance now is headed.

Many terminals of west-east Russian railroads now are in German hands, spokesmen said, and "it remains to be seen how the Russians will solve the transportation problem on the north and south rail lines." Roads in the zone of operations were described as poor.

Finns Occupy Monastery on Island in Lake Ladoga.

HELSINKI, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Finnish command announced today the occupation yesterday of Konevitsa Monastery, on an island just off the west shore of Lake Ladoga in territory seized by the Russians in the war of 1939-40.

U. S. TO PAY DIRECT SUBSIDY ON COTTON SENT TO CANADA

Payment of 2½ Cents Will Supplement Replacement From Loan Stocks Exports.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Agriculture Department announced today that it would make a direct subsidy of 2½ cents a pound on cotton exported to Canada, in an effort to increase exports of the United States crop.

Department officials said the new subsidy program, which is subject to daily change in rates, would be in addition to a Canadian export program announced 10 days ago.

Under the previous program, exporters were permitted to replace any cotton sent to Canada from Government loan stocks at a rate of 13⅛ cents a pound for 3-16 inch middling cotton. The new program gives exporters an additional 2½ cents.

Although officials declined comment, it appeared that the new direct subsidy was designed to enable the United States cotton to compete in Canadian markets with that grown in South America.

NAZIS REPORT TWO VESSELS BOMBED IN BRITISH WATERS

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—Two freighters of 7000 and 8000 tons were bombed last night east of Hull, England, informed Germans said today. In reviewing activities of their air force they gave the total of ships sunk in the last seven days as six freighters and one tanker, approximating 50,000 tons.

Three British fighting planes were said to have been shot down yesterday afternoon when they attacked anti-aircraft positions near Dunkerque, on the French coast.

British planes dropped explosives and incendiaries over northwestern and southwestern Germany last night but did no material damage, an official announcement said.

TAYLOR TO REPORT TALKS WITH POPE TO 3 U. S. ENVOYS

Minister to Eire to Be at London Conference on Subject of Vatican's Attitude on War.

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK.
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1941.

LONDON, Sept. 27. — Three American envoys will meet here tomorrow to hear the report of Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, on his conversations with the Pope. Two American Ambassadors stationed here, John G. Winant, Ambassador to Britain, and Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., Ambassador to eight exiled governments, will be joined tonight by David Grey, United States Minister to Eire.

Taylor went to Rome a few weeks ago on a special mission thought to have been connected with the Pope's "negative attitude" toward the war. Taylor undoubtedly explained the position of the United States and may have indicated, if speculation in informed quarters here is accurate, the desirability of a clearer lead from the Vatican in view of the fact that the United States is engaged in the war effort.

No Peace Proposals.

It is understood that Taylor made a detour from Lisbon to London at the express request of the President to inform Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Winant, Biddle and Grey of the results of his conversations. It can be stated positively that Taylor has brought no peace proposals.

In view of the fact that Grey, Minister to a Catholic country, is coming here for the first time since he passed through London en route to his post, it may be assumed that Taylor bears reports of the Papal attitude toward the war. If he is here also to discuss problems of refugees, as was indicated officially, it is believed that that is incidental.

Of the eight exiled governments in London with which Biddle is concerned, five have large Catholic populations. In Poland, particularly, the Germans have taken most repressive measures against the church. In the Poznan region action has been especially severe and Taylor may have discussed this with the Pope.

Evacuation Problem.

There is also the problem of 1,250,000 Poles in the Kirghiz steppe area of Russia whom it is hoped to evacuate to India. Almost all of these are Catholics.

There has been no clarification of the circumstances under which Taylor left Vatican City. The Italian Government is understood to have made representations to the Pope for his immediate departure. This is regarded as unusual, in view of the fact that the United States and Italy still have diplomatic relations.

NEW FIRM'S BID IS ACCEPTED FOR CENTRAL STATES

Judge Flynn Orders All Assets Turned Over to Mutual Savings Life Insurance Co.

COMPANY TO START OPERATION AT ONCE

To Use Offices of Old Concern at 3663 Lindell — Offer for Business Held Better of Two.

The bid of the recently formed Mutual Savings Life Insurance Co. for the business of the insolvent Central States Life Insurance Co. was approved today by Circuit Judge William B. Flynn, who ordered all of Central States' assets turned over to the new company.

Allen May, president of Mutual Savings, said his company would begin operation immediately, using the Central States office at 3663 Lindell boulevard.

The bid of Mutual Savings was one of two made for the Central States business, the other having been offered by the State National Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis. Ray B. Lucas, who retires as State Insurance Superintendent on Monday, had recommended the Mutual Savings bid.

Better Bid, Says Judge.

Judge Flynn, who heard testimony concerning the two bids for eight days, said he believed the evidence showed Mutual Savings to have submitted the better bid.

As a preliminary to issuing the order for the State Insurance Department to turn over Central State's assets to Mutual Savings, Judge Flynn sustained a motion of Lucas to terminate the order for rehabilitation of the company. Central States had been in the hands of the Insurance Department since last Nov. 26, when it was declared insolvent because of an impairment of $4,457,568 in its assets. Central States has 40,000 policy holders, with $65,000,000 of insurance in force. Under the new plan of operation, the company will be revitalized, and the policy holders, by means of a lien placed on the policies, will supply the funds to offset the impairments in assets.

Rates of Liens.

The lien will be 30 per cent on the cash surrender value of all registered policies issued prior to April 12, 1934, after which all policies were required by law to be registered, and 60 per cent on all non-registered policies. May estimated that these liens would raise $3,200,000, or about $700,000 more than the impairment in assets.

All valid death claims and accidental death benefits will be paid in full up to Dec. 31, 1955, without any liens against such policies being deducted. After this date any outstanding liens would be deducted.

Mutual Saving was formed by Alfred Fairbank, former president of Central States, with the sole purpose of making a bid on the Central States business. Fairbank stepped out as president of the company just a few days before the court hearings began. May is a former counsel for General American Life Insurance Co.

MOTHER AND SON INJURED BY AUTO IN CROSSING STREET

Driver Says They Stepped Into His Path From Between Parked Cars.

Mrs. Josephine Becker, 4043 South Spring avenue, and her son, Donald, 8 years old, were injured last night when struck by an automobile while they were crossing South Grand boulevard south of Montana street.

Truck Driver Robbed of $30.

Harvey Berry, 2667 Nebraska avenue, a grocery truck driver, was robbed of $30 yesterday by two men who forced their way into his truck as he was making a delivery in the 4100 block of Cleveland avenue. Berry said the robbers, one of whom had a revolver, bound his hands with strips of a butcher's apron and drove the truck to an alley in the rear of 3900 Flad avenue. Berry released himself and called police.

NEW FIRM'S BID IS ACCEPTED FOR CENTRAL STATES

COMPANY TO START OPERATION AT ONCE

To Use Offices of Old Concern at 3663 Lindell — Offer for Business Held Better of Two.

The bid of the recently formed Mutual Savings Life Insurance Co. for the business of the insolvent Central States Life Insurance Co. was approved today by Circuit Judge William B. Flynn, who ordered all of Central States' assets turned over to the new company. Allen May, president of Mutual Savings, said his company would begin operation immediately, using the Central States office at 3663 Lindell boulevard.

The bid of Mutual Savings was one of two made for the Central States business, the other having been offered by the State National Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis. Ray B. Lucas, who retires as State Insurance Superintendent on Monday, had recommended the Mutual Savings bid.

Better Bid, Says Judge.

Judge Flynn, who heard testimony concerning the two bids for six days, said he believed the evidence showed Mutual Savings to have submitted the better bid.

As a preliminary to issuing the order for the State Insurance Department to turn over Central State's assets to Mutual Savings, Judge Flynn sustained a motion by Lucas to terminate the order for rehabilitation of the company. Central States had been in the hands of the Insurance Department since last Nov. 26, when it was declared insolvent because of an impairment of $4,457,568 in its assets. Central States has 40,000 policy holders, with $65,000,000 of insurance in force. Under the new plan of operation, the company will be recapitalized, and the policy holders, by means of a lien placed on the policies, will supply the funds to offset the impairments in assets.

Rates of Liens.

The lien will be 30 per cent on the cash surrender value of all registered policies issued prior to April 12, 1934, after which all policies were required by law to be registered, and 60 per cent on all non-registered policies. May estimated that these liens would raise $300,000, or about $700,000 more than the impairment in assets.

All valid death claims and accidental death benefits will be paid in full up to Dec. 31, 1955, without any liens against such policies being deducted. After this date any outstanding liens would be deducted.

Mutual Saving was formed by Alfred Fairbank, former president of Central States, with the sole purpose of making a bid on the Central States' business. Fairbank stepped out as president of the company just a few days before the court hearings began. May is a former counsel for General American Life Insurance Co.

MOTHER AND SON INJURED BY AUTO IN CROSSING STREET

Driver Says They Stepped Into His Path From Between Parked Cars.

Mrs. Josephine Becker, 4043 South Spring avenue, and her son, Donald, 8 years old, were injured last night when struck by an automobile while they were crossing South Grand boulevard south of Montana street.

Truck Driver Robbed of $30.

Harvey Berry, 2667 Nebraska avenue, a grocery truck driver, was robbed of $30 yesterday by two men who forced their way into his truck as he was making a delivery in the 4100 block of Cleveland avenue. Berry said the robbers, one of whom had a revolver, bound his hands with strips of a butcher's apron and drove the truck to an alley in the rear of 3900 Flad avenue. Berry released himself and called police.

Dean McClain Quits America First Group Over Lindbergh Utterances

Prof. E. E. Hilpert of Washington U. Law School Also Resigns; Raising of Racial Issues Assailed.

Dean Joseph A. McClain Jr. of the Washington University Law School and Prof. E. E. Hilpert, a member of the law school faculty, have resigned as members of the St. Louis chapter of the America First Committee, it was learned today.

Both gave as the reasons for their resignations the recent speech of Charles A. Lindbergh at Des Moines, Ia., in which Lindbergh said the three forces carrying America to war were "the Roosevelt administration, England, and the Jews."

Dean McClain said he had sent his letter of resignation on Thursday to Joseph Forshaw, chairman of the St. Louis chapter.

"I had been talking against intervention long before the America First Committee came along," Dean McClain said, "and I joined the committee because at first it stood solely for a strong defense and our non-participation in the war.

"But recently the national leaders of the committee have injected racial issues into their discussion of our country's foreign policy, which I think are out of bounds and contrary to fundamental American traditions.

"Because of the confusion which the injection of these issues has caused, and because of the present state of our involvment as a nation, I have resigned from the committee."

Dean McClain said he had not been active in the committee's affairs in the last four months, since almost all of his time was devoted to working for the civil service amendment.

Prof. Hilpert, in announcing his resignation, said "Americans should debate political issues, both foreign and domestic, as fellow Americans only. To characterize one's political opponents by calling names or according to racial origin or religious affiliation is wholly inexcusable and violates the first principle of American democracy.

"I am opposed to American intervention in the European war, but it is all the more my duty to disavow any organization of non-interventionists or any of its leaders who substitute insinuation or even counter-insinuation for debate. Therefore, I am resigning from America First."

Prof. Hilpert, who lives at 5856 Enright avenue and teaches constitutional law and negotiable instruments at Washington University, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had been "disquieted" since May concerning some of the tactics of America First Committee spokesmen, but Lindbergh's utterances finally caused him to resign.

MAN SENT TO JAIL UNDER FINE IMPOSED ELEVEN YEARS AGO

Had Been Freed on Bond After Conviction on Felonious Wounding Charge.

DeWitte Mathes, 5826A Theodosia avenue, who was found guilty of felonious wounding and fined $100 by a Circuit Court jury nearly 11 years ago, was finally sentenced formally on the conviction today by Circuit Judge Julius R. Nolte.

Mathes, who is employed at the small arms ammunition plant, was found guilty Nov. 30, 1930, of striking and injuring a man with his automobile in Jennings. Pending a motion for a new trial, he was released on $500 bond and slipped out of sight until St. Louis police arrested him yesterday on a non-support charge and turned him over to county authorities.

Mathes explained to Judge Nolte that after his conviction he told his attorney he wanted a new trial, and the lawyer said he would notify him when to appear again. He said he failed to return because he never heard from his attorney again. Judge Nolte ordered him held in County Jail until he pays the fine.

PROMOTER WHO SOLD TICKETS FOR UNION DANCE ARRESTED

Sol Weintraub Booked for Failing to Get Permit; Local Had Ended His Services.

Sol Weintraub, a promoter, was booked by police for failing to obtain a permit to solicit advertisements and sell tickets for a benefit after his arrest yesterday in his temporary office in the Mid-City Building, 320 North Grand boulevard.

Weintraub had been conducting a telephone campaign to sell tickets and advertising for a dance to be held Nov. 17 by the AFL Gasoline Service Station and Warehouse Employes' Local 618. He was moving yesterday, he told police, after his services had been terminated suddenly by C. W. Ault, president of the local. Police seized 9000 tickets for the dance.

Arrested with Weintraub, were Fred Moran and James E. Stacey, who said they were salesmen helping Weintraub. Weintraub gave his address as 605 Clara avenue.

SENATOR ROZIER GIVING UP SEAT IN STATE LEGISLATURE

Governor Holds Up Action on Resignation; Republican Taking $6000 Counsel Post.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 27 (AP).—State Senator George Rozier of Perryville, ranking Republican member of the chamber, submitted his resignation today to Gov. Forrest C. Donnell. The Governor did not act on it immediately.

Rozier was designated this week as general counsel for the State Unemployment Compensation Commission — a $6000-a-year job. He has been Senator from the State's Twenty-sixth District since 1934 and at the last session of the Legislature was regarded as an administration spokesman in the Senate.

He is co-author of the Unemployment Compensation Act, passed at the 1937 session.

Senator Rozier was married Thursday to Miss Elizabeth McReynolds, daughter of State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage.

MAN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Driver Says He Was Unaware He Had Struck Anyone Until He Felt Jolt.

George Witherspoon, Negro, who was struck by an automobile in the 3100 block of Dickson street early today, died several hours later at Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

Everett Schroll, 6016 South Kingshighway, driver of the car, told police he did not know he had struck anyone until he felt the car receive a jolt. He stopped and found the Negro lying in the street.

Witherspoon, 41 years old, lived at 2907A Easton avenue.

Payment to General Creditors.

A first liquidating payment of 8 per cent to general creditors of the defunct C. F. Blanke Tea & Coffee Co. was authorized yesterday by Circuit Judge David J. Murphy on petition of Chilton Atkinson, receiver of the firm. He said he had $21,745 cash on hand from which to make the distribution. The general claims total $98,616. All preferred and superior claims have been paid. The company has assets valued at $333,808, including oil land property in Texas valued at $96,808. The company has been in receivership nine years.

17 LATIN AMERICAN HOTEL MEN VISIT CITY

Entertained at Dinners, Make Sight-Seeing Tour, Go to Defense Projects.

A group of 17 Latin-American hotel men, representing as many countries, were in St. Louis today as guests of the Hotel Association of St. Louis. They are on a good-will tour of the country.

The visitors, who arrived late yesterday and will depart for Chicago tonight, participated in the recent formation of the Inter-American Hotel Association and attended the Pan-American Travel Highway Congress which closed last Monday in Mexico City.

The entertainment program for today included a luncheon at the Anheuser-Busch brewery, to which Mayor William Dee Becker and other city officials have been invited, and a sightseeing tour of the city, including visits to some of the defense projects in this area. A cocktail party will be held at the Park Plaza Hotel at 7 o'clock with dinner at the Coronado Hotel an hour later.

Shortly after their arrival they were guests at a cocktail party at Hotel Statler and at a dinner at Hotel Jefferson. The delegation is accompanied by Franklin Moore, president of the American Hotel Association, and other representatives of the association.

The Latin-American group comprises: Jorge Durand, Buenos Aires, Argentina; Hugo Vidal, La Paz, Bolivia; Mauricio Fernandes da Silva, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Daniel Pombo, Bogota, Colombia; Carlos Ventura Jr., San Jose, Costa Rica; Pierre Kuppenheim, Santiago, Chile; Pascual Moran, Havana, Cuba; Juano Velasquez, Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic; Isaac J. Aboab, Quito, Ecuador; P. E. Laugerud, Guatemala City, Guatemala; Antonio Ruiz Galindo, El Fortin, Mexico; Ramiro Arguello, Nangua, Nicaragua; Julio Huertematte, Panama City, Panama; Penaro Escudero, Asuncion, Paraguay; Augustin Cuerve Codazzi, Venezuela; Theodore Nichtawitz, Lima, Peru, and Juan Mendoza, Montevideo.

LOST FLYER STOPS FOOTBALL GAME, LANDS IN AUTO LOT

STOCKTON, Cal., Sept. 27 (AP).—An army cadet aviator from Mather Field at Sacramento lost his way over Stockton last night and halted a football game for 20 minutes.

Off his course and nearly out of gasoline, V. M. Wieser dipped his plane over Baxter Stadium to within 10 feet of the playing field, regained altitude and then sheared off a power line as he made an emergency landing in a nearby parking lot.

Lights went off in the stadium, halting the San Bernardino-Stockton Junior College football game, which was in the third quarter.

Wieser piloted his craft by the beam of his plane lights to a spot between two rows of parked cars.

KILLER OF SON ACQUITTED

Mother, 25, Found to Have Been Insane When She Drowned Infant.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27 (AP).—A Circuit Court jury found Mrs. Mildred Irene Fridel, 25 years old, not guilty of murder by reason of insanity in the drowning of her 3-month-old son in a bathtub last July.

Judge Ben Terte instructed the jurors to find Mrs. Fridel insane after County Prosecutor Michael W. O'Hern had pleaded for mercy. State witnesses testified she was insane.

Woman, 75, Hurt in Fall, Dies.

Mrs. Minnie Voelkel, 75-year-old widow, 5139 Enright avenue, who suffered a fracture of the right hip June 8 in a fall on a Delmar street car, died yesterday at City Hospital. She told police the car stopped suddenly at Eighteenth and Olive streets, throwing her to the floor. An inquest will be held.

U. S. NAVY SAVES SIX OF CREW OF FOUNDERED SHIP

Men Picked Up in Caribbean—Two on Raft Say Third Was Washed Off by Stormy Seas.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sept. 27 (AP).—The navy reported the rescue by destroyers today of six of the crew of the foundered Libby Maine in the Caribbean, with search continuing for 25 listed as still missing.

Third Mate Francis Holmes and a seaman whose name was given as James Moore were taken off a raft by a destroyer which found them with the aid of a searchlight at 1 a. m. (The crew list as issued by the Shipping Commissioner at Seattle did not show a member named Moore.)

Later today four additional crewmen were reported rescued in heavy seas. No details were available.

The first two survivors, described as in good condition, said a third man was washed off the raft by stormy seas during the 36 hours they were adrift.

Other rafts were reported farther south, and destroyers and planes were searching for them, navy officers here said.

The Libby Maine carried a crew of 31. It left Los Angeles Aug. 25 with steel rails for San Juan. On Thursday it radioed it was sinking in a storm 400 miles southwest of Puerto Rico.

The 1811-ton vessel also was known as the Ethel Skakel, a name it was to have been given on arrival on the East coast.

James M. Jamieson, operating manager of the Parry Shipping Co., the vessel's owners, said in New York that its name change to Ethel Shakel had been authorized by the Steamboat Inspection Bureau but had not yet been put on customs house records.

He said he had been informed that nine men had been sighted on five rafts about 200 miles off the Venezuelan coast.

'NEGATIVE RESULTS' IN NAVY'S SEARCH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Navy Department reported crew members its search for the 26 crew members of the sunken American - owned merchant ship Montana had yielded only "negative results."

This was taken to indicate that the navy held little hope of finding any of the crew alive, although there remained the possibility that a lifeboat load of survivors eventually might reach land or a rescue ship.

The Montana was sunk Sept. 11 in waters approaching Iceland. It flew the Panamanian flag and was reported to carry a cargo of lumber.

The navy said it had searched over an area of several thousand square miles "surrounding the positions where the life boats of the steamer were reported to have left the ship after the vessel was attacked."

Three Missing From Navy Plane Down in Caribbean.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Navy announced that three persons were missing from a United States Navy patrol bomber which was forced down in the Caribbean Sea near St. Eustatius Island Thursday. Ten others were reported safe.

The patrol craft developed mechanical trouble while flying at 5000 feet, the navy said, and all aboard parachuted except the pilot.

The pilot, Ensign Herbert Cordie Weart, a Naval Reserve officer, brought the plane down to a safe landing on the ocean. The plane has been taken to St. Eustatius Island, one of the leeward islands.

The missing:

William Kirby Smith, 23 years old, aviation machinist mate third class, of Wesson, Miss.

D. F. Arture, a civilian.

Antonio Grillasca, a civilian.

CITY ASKS NEW YORK CENTRAL TO PROPOSE REROUTING PLAN

Mayor Sends Request to General Manager, Who Commented on Proposal at Meeting.

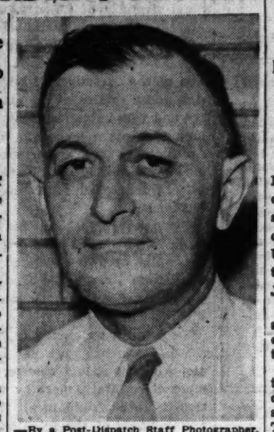
Mayor William Dee Becker said yesterday he would ask C. S. Millard, vice-president and general manager of the New York Central System, to submit his own proposal to the city for the rerouting of passenger trains over the Municipal Bridge so that the elevated tracks on the levee can be removed.

Millard was the only railroad executive to express an opinion on the city's proposal for the rerouting at a meeting at City Hall Thursday of city officials and representatives of the Terminal Railroad Association's 15 member lines.

At the meeting, Millard said the New York Central and three other roads chiefly affected by the rerouting plan would be willing to accept the city's proposed changes "if the new route is as good as the one we now use." The Mayor said he would ask Millard to suggest any new rerouting system he considers better than the one worked out by Director of Public Utilities Max H. Doyne.

CHIEF OF POLICE WHO FREED GANGSTER GIARDANO RESIGNS

Strong Informs Collinsville Council He Wants to Save It and Mayor From 'Embarrassment'.



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
CHIEF EDGAR STRONG

Chief of Police Edgar Strong of Collinsville, whose release of the gangster Tony Giardano is under investigation by the Madison County grand jury, resigned unexpectedly last night.

He left a letter with the City Council informing it that he wanted to give up his $170-a-month job "because of the notoriety of newspaper publicity" and to "save the Mayor and Councilmen from embarrassment."

Chief Strong was out of town today on a squirrel hunting trip and the Police Department was in the hands of Patrolman Ed Musso. The City Council, which a month ago had found no evidence of bribery and had absolved Chief Strong of any "malicious intent," was completely surprised by the chief's action, but it accepted the resignation unanimously.

The grand jury, which has been investigating the case since Monday, recessed for the week end. State's Attorney C. W. Burton said it would probably have its report on the investigation ready by Monday afternoon. Witnesses before the jury have included other members of the Collinsville Police Department, the Collinsville jailer and telegraph operator and Collinsville city officials and lawyers.

Giardano, who had been arrested with two companions, James Lannigan and Marvin Michaels, and charged with carrying concealed weapons and driving an automobile with fictitious license plates, was secretly released by Chief Strong last Aug. 10 in the face of repeated requests for him by police at Los Angeles, where he had been identified along with Lannigan in a $4000 robbery.

A few weeks later, as the Collinsville City Council prepared to start an inquiry into Chief Strong's conduct, Giardano suddenly reappeared, saying he wanted to "save the Chief from embarrassment."

Giardano subsequently started habeas corpus proceedings, but United States District Judge Charles G. Briggle at Springfield ruled that he must be returned to California for trial. He was taken there last Sept. 16.

POLICE BOARD NAMES MEDICAL DIRECTOR

Dr. Charles F. Sherwin of St. Louis U. Gets Post—Departmental Surgeons Chosen.

Dr. Charles F. Sherwin, associate professor of surgery at the St. Louis University Medical School, was appointed medical director of the Police Department at a meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday. Dr. Sherwin, who lives at 3971 Flora place, will receive $2700 a year. He succeeds Dr. Henry Gettys, who resigned, effective Oct. 1.

The board also named four departmental surgeons, who will receive $2400 yearly. They are Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., 16 Washington terrace; Dr. Victor E. Scherman, Gatesworth Hotel; Dr. Eugene J. O'Malley, 6100 Kingsbury boulevard, and Dr. Charles M. Bauman, 4515 Maryland avenue. They replace four surgeons whose resignations were submitted on request of the board.

The Police Board, following a hearing, suspended for one week Clyde Gardner, Negro patrolman of the Ninth Police District, for failure to appear in police court as a witness Sept. 9 in a peace disturbance case.

The board's action was taken after it had heard Patrolman Raymond Gates of the Ninth District Station, who denied an assertion by Gardner last week that Gates had promised to appear as a police witness and had told Gardner he need not bother about it.

Gardner's hearing was continued from last week in order to give Patrolman Gates an opportunity to testify. The one week suspension means a loss of $45 pay.

GETS YEAR FOR POLL FRAUD BUT IS PUT ON PAROLE

A. A. Teters Pleads Guilty of Asking for Ballot in His Brother's Name.

Alvin A. Teters, 2509A Bacon street, a painter, was sentenced to a year in City Jail yesterday by Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius on his plea of guilty of asking for a ballot in his brother's name in the city election last spring. Sentence was stayed by Judge Sartorius, who placed Teters on parole for six months.

Teters was arrested at the polling place of the Fourteenth Precinct of the Nineteenth Ward. When he asked for a ballot in the name of his brother, Omar Teters Jr., a precinct worker challenged him. The worker recalled that Teters' father, voting earlier, had remarked that his son, Omar, was in Chicago.

CLERK SAID TO ADMIT TAKING $622 AT GASEN DRUG STORE

Arrested in Chicago; Police Say He Bought Car, Had Accident in Which Woman was Killed.

Charles E. Hensley, former night clerk at the Gasen Drug Store at 5270 Delmar boulevard, has admitted taking $622 from the store Sept. 2, police announced today. He was returned here last night from Chicago, where he was arrested.

Hensley told detectives an automobile he had bought with part of the money struck a bridge abutment Sept. 6 near Mayfield, Ky., killing a companion, Miss Maxine Williams of Chicago.

A newsboy had seen Hensley enter the drug store about 6 a. m. the day of the theft. He remained inside for a short time, then drove away in a taxicab with a woman. He had been employed a week before.

SALAD GIVEN AS CAUSE IN POISONING CASES

Food Served at Mothers' Club Was Contaminated, Says Dr. Bredeck.

An investigation by the City Health Department has established definitely that the chicken salad served last Monday at a luncheon of the Mothers' Club of St. Louis University High School was contaminated, Health Commissioner Joseph F. Bredeck said today.

Many of the 180 women who attended the luncheon became ill, eight of them requiring hospitalization.

Dr. Bredeck said the investigation disclosed that the salad became contaminated with bacteria sometime during its preparation. The mayonnaise which was used in the salad was not contaminated, he said.

Ten gallons of the salad were prepared on Saturday at Lynn's Market, Sixth street and Lucas avenue, and stored until Monday morning in the store's icebox, Dr. Bredeck said. He added that since there was a great quantity of the salad, it did not chill fast enough to prevent the further growth of bacteria.

The specific type of bacteria has not been determined, Dr. Bredeck said, but the type suspected is particularly toxic to kittens, and he issued a call for six two-month-old kittens on which to try an injection of culture made from the contaminated food. If the kittens die after the injection, Dr. Bredeck will be certain of the type of poisonous bacteria in the salad.

Most of the women affected by the food became violently ill. Some were forced to leave a book review given after the luncheon, others collapsed on their way home or shortly after they reached home. All of those hospitalized have returned to their homes.

U. S. ON THRESHOLD OF WAR, ASSERTS SECRETARY KNOX

ernment control over munition exports, but I think the President should be given a free hand to decide what is needed and what is not."

Thomas said a simple bill could authorize the President "to fix such regulations regarding neutrality as he deemed necessary in the national interest according to the circumstances of the time."

Congressional leaders expect to confer with Roosevelt regarding modification of the neutrality law early next week. Indications are that the President will request major changes, but will not ask that the present law be repealed entirely.

Although one administration leader said the Senate and House votes for modification of the act "will be as safe as an investment in the Washington Monument," there were signs of a fight in the Senate.

Thomas said that he assumed "there will be the usual opposition to any new proposal," and Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, asserted that "thus far the administration has not designated its proposed repeal or modification of neutrality as a move designed to keep us out of war."

"Only for the lack of that claim does the proposal differ from all the others which we see now as having been steps toward war," he asserted.

Nye said that the existing neutrality provisions "are all that remains of law to prevent our being pushed straight into the war.

"Because of that the new repeal or revision legislation might well be called an indirect declaration of war. I don't think such legislation can be enacted because Congress obviously is not ready to vote for a declaration of war."

200 AIR CORPS RECRUITS TO LEAVE FOR PUERTO RICO

Men From Jefferson Barracks Will Depart Sunday Night For Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Two hundred Jefferson Barracks Army Air Corps recruits will leave Sunday night on a six-car train for Fort Slocum, N. Y., where they will embark for Puerto Rico for an indefinite period of training and service.

The soldiers, all three-year enlisted men, are expected to complete the 2500-mile journey in two weeks. The men are 18 to 24 years old.

$402,000 in Army Shoe Orders Here.

Contracts totaling $402,025 have been awarded to shoe manufacturers in the St. Louis area by the War Department, it was announced yesterday. The firms are: International Shoe Co., which received a $311,400 order for 90,000 pairs of shoes, and Belleville Shoe Co. of Belleville, $90,625 for 25,000 pairs.

ART BOARD ACTS TO REMOVE ALL TRACE OF CITY HALL SIGN

Votes to Take Out Conduit, but That May Spoil Air-Conditioning for Becker's Secretary.

The Municipal Art Commission, seeking to remove the last vestiges of a plan last January to erect a glaring neon-lighted City Hall sign at the Market street entrance to the building, voted yesterday to recommend that an electric conduit installed for the sign be removed, an action that might deprive the Mayor's secretary, Charles J. Riley, of his new office air-conditioning unit.

Perry T. Rathbone, director of the Art Museum and commission secretary, brought the point up during a meeting yesterday, suggesting that the electric conduit, which lines a part of the facade of City Hall and then connects with Riley's office on the second floor, be removed, inasmuch as the neon sign will not be put up. Rathbone was unaware, as were other members, that the conduit is being used to supply current for Riley's air-conditioning unit.

The suggestion was adopted. Advised of this, Riley told reporters: "I don't care; the summer's over." He added, however, that next summer he would try to have the unit connected with the one in the Mayor's office.

ELMER J. DOWLING RETURNED TO ST. LOUIS COUNTY JAIL

Held Without Bond Pending New Trial on Charge of Shooting Lee Baker.

Elmer J. Dowling was returned yesterday from the State penitentiary at Jefferson City to St. Louis County jail at Clayton, where he is held without bond pending a new trial on a charge of assault with intent to kill Louis Lee Baker, a Negro, in a cottage at Creve Coeur Lake Oct. 18, 1938.

Dowling, who is 34 years old, was 20 pounds lighter than when he was sentenced to 30 years in the penitentiary in March, 1940, for the shooting of Baker, the State's principal witness in the trial of Isadore Londe for bombing a cleaning establishment June 2, 1938.

The State Supreme Court affirmed Dowling's conviction last July 25 but remanded the case for another trial last Thursday, holding that testimony given at the trial by Chief of Detectives John H. Carroll of St. Louis concerning his questioning of Dowling should not have been admitted and constituted a reversible error. Dowling is a former officer of the Bartenders' Union in St. Louis. He had served 16 months of his sentence.

Anti-Semitism—Hitler's Weapon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE danger to the national security of the American people is no more an academic problem. It is real—real to every American regardless of race, creed or color.

President Roosevelt has time and again pointed out that Hitler seeks to conquer the world and that the defeat of Hitlerism is not only the concern of the peoples of Europe, but of every decent American who cherishes democracy and who desires the preservation of the American way of life.

Behind this program the American people are fast uniting. But there are those who seek to obstruct the program of the administration for full collaboration and aid to Great Britain and the Soviet Union. They seek to make the American people believe that the defeat of Hitler is no concern of ours.

But they do not stop there. They realize that a united American people will never succumb to their Hitlerian aims. They therefore attempt to divide the people by means of anti-Semitism and race hatred. They seek to spread the Nazi fiction that this is a Jewish war.

To use Hitler's weapon, anti-Semitism, to divide the American people and to prevent unity at a moment when America is in grave peril, is a betrayal of the national interests of every American.

The American people are deeply shocked to find that Americans in high office are undermining the glorious traditions and heritage of America.

Complains of Fly-Ash.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOW that St. Louis has made such a swell job of the merit system and the smoke campaigns, why doesn't it start another campaign and rid South St. Louis of the fly-ash nuisance? Smoke and soot were a treat compared to the dirt that is now flying around. We only had the smoke a few months out of the year, but this fly-ash is here all the time. If inhaling smoke was so detrimental to our health, what is happening now? DISGUSTED.

A High School Student on the War.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

TWENTY-FOUR years ago, America entered the greatest conflict of all times for the purpose of making this world "Safe for democracy." We came out of that war with a mountain of debt, a burden of grief and with doubt in our minds as to whether we had really saved democracy. Today, after somewhat of a recovery, we are about to enter a still greater hell to save our freedom and those of the peoples of the world. If we turn out to be better men than the other fellow, will we still be in doubt about our security?

Today we read about the well-planned regime Hitler will establish in the world if he is victor. What are we and the British planning for continental Europe and Asia if we should win?

In far less than a lifetime, the peace efforts of 1920 have died. Indeed, the League of Nations in which the United States did not claim membership has collapsed, the World Court, and I suppose a dozen other peace societies, have failed and again we are face to face with another war crisis.

It seems to me that winning this war would be a mistake unless afterward we can submit a plan for world peace so that we can stop staining God's ground with human blood. Have the chief Americans who are acquainted with economic and political affairs been planning a peace that will take the fear of war out of the hearts of the generations to come?

I only hope that when peace comes, my children and my children's children will not have to live in the constant fear that my parents and millions of other people are living today.

Would Avoid Additional Congestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM heartily in accord with your recent editorial to the effect that speed is not the primary factor in causing accidents, otherwise there would be more of them on our State highways. At any rate, five miles an hour more or less on the Express Highway would make no difference and if the limit were lowered it would only cause additional congestion.

Appreciates 50-Cent Student Pass.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN view of the criticism so generously heaped on the Public Service Co., from time to time, let me raise my voice in praise for the generous gesture it made in issuing the 50-cent student pass. I for one think it was most generous and far-sighted. These things should be called to the public's attention as well as overcrowded cars, etc., which the general public is wont to notice.

Again, hats off to the Public Service Co. for making it possible for our boys to leave their bicycles at home during the morning and afternoon rush hours.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOOSTER.

A TRACT FOR THE TIMES.

Very often an academic festival is of interest only to the academic. This is true to a degree even of the golden jubilee being celebrated these days by the University of Chicago, an institution to which America is especially beholden.

We are glad enough to drop our bit of laurel and bay. We are glad enough to note that the migration of the usefully learned to its Quadrangles is a sign and a symbol of the extent to which this country and this university have become the center and font of Western wisdom. We are ready enough to acknowledge the importance of all the learned papers being read by the assembled savants, if only we are not asked to trouble our heads with their intricacies.

But two men spoke at this campus celebration yesterday whose words clamor for attention far beyond the walls of any cloistered library or laboratory. They were Dr. Charles H. McIlwain, Eaton Professor of the Science of Government in Harvard, and President Hutchins.

To a world wallowing in flux and uncertainty, to a world which knows not how it is changing, let alone how it should change, these two men offered more of certainty, more by which to steer a course, than is to be found in all the carefully proved announcements of the scientists.

St. Augustine supplied Dr. McIlwain's text: "Without justice what are realms after all, but robber-bands enlarged?" Going back from the days of the author of "The City of God," back through Cicero and Plato and Aristotle, and coming forward into the morning of our own day, Dr. McIlwain showed that this idea of justice—"man's whole duty"—was the core of Western politics and Western ethics. Sometimes, as in the case of a Machiavelli, it got no more than lip service, but until our day, it was never denied. Only now is unabashed force setting itself up as a sufficient warrant for the conduct of states and of men.

Here President Hutchins took up the theme. Freedom and justice, he believes, go hand in hand. We cannot have them if we do not learn to rule and to be ruled like freemen for the good of the whole. But schools and philosophers, his own Chicago in the van, have turned from such considerations to the practical, the vocational, the things that work—or that are supposed to work.

To translate freely: It is not only the threat of a Hitler victorious that clouds our future. There is a greater danger in the individual man who believes that, if he can get $10,000 a year and stay out of jail, he is a success. No matter how much such a one may talk of democracy and liberty, he does not understand them. He holds them so cheap that he is almost sure to lose them. And what is worse, he may not even miss them.

Dr. McIlwain and President Hutchins are not unaware of the importance of what is going on in the research laboratories. But they do realize that men in our day are in danger of losing themselves in a maze of aimless gadgeteering. They realize that, as it was once said that the schools of the Middle Ages were rich in principles and poor in facts, we are rich in facts and pauper-poor in principles.

Some of us would even make a virtue of our poverty. Consider the Nazis and their mechanical miracles. Consider the French and their money-grubbing. Consider, without the self-justification of the Pharisee, how far we are infected with the same viruses. We need more than phrases to deck our conduct; we need a code—sincerely held—to justify it. Democracy must be more than a word.

How to get a thing done remains an important question for the politician and the citizen, as well as for the laboratory man. But according to Dr. McIlwain and President Hutchins, there is a much more important one: Why should we do a thing, if at all?

They would have us set justifiable ends above practical means. That is something which moderns have declared to be unimportant, if not impossible. Today's truth, they say, is tomorrow's lie.

If this attitude prevails, there is no saving democracy and freedom. If this rule becomes our guide, then we are without a guide, and the idea of justice is dead.

MANPOWER AGAIN THE DECIDING FORCE.

The mechanization of modern warfare was supposed by the theorists to have diminished the importance of manpower. The months of "phony war" seemed to justify their opinion. Even the conquest of Norway, the Low Countries and France, with extremely low mortality on either side, was cited as proof that this was a new kind of war.

The picture has changed in the last few months. On the Eastern front, huge masses of men are engaged in a vast struggle. Every estimate of dead, wounded and missing, from Berlin, Moscow and neutral points, runs into huge figures. Yesterday, dispatches from the war in Russia continued to tell of wholesale slaughter and, significantly, there came a report from informed circles that Germany was demanding a million troops from its allies. As to the now quiescent Western front, "there will have to be an invasion of the Continent" before Germany can be defeated, said Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian troops in England.

The machine is deadly, but the ultimate decision once more rests upon human endurance.

FIASCO IN THE MOVIE INVESTIGATION.

The preliminary inquiry into alleged movie war propaganda has assuredly gone far enough, and produced little enough evidence, to warrant Senator McFarland in challenging its sponsors to submit to the Senate the question of its continuance. Only wild accusations and exploded charges have resulted from the three weeks of hearings. The inquisitors have been made ridiculous by pointed questions as to whether they desired Hollywood to make some pro-Nazi movies, and whether they wanted to impose censorship on the film industry. Senator Nye was left looking rather sheepish when it came out that one of the alleged propaganda pictures, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," had been strongly indorsed by him when it appeared two years ago.

Another alleged propaganda picture is the current "Sergeant York," the film biography of the man acclaimed as America's greatest individual World War hero. Instead of using hokum or incitement to arms, this movie closely follows the facts, and shows restraint at many points that could easily have carried a powerful emotional appeal. It does not make war glorious, but records its tragedies honestly. It preaches no hatred for the Germans. The high point, of course, is York's great exploit in France, but the real climax comes long before, when the Tennessee mountaineer, originally a conscientious objector, is convinced that being a soldier is not inconsistent with belief in the Bible—scarcely a national issue that would require a propaganda crusade.

The attack on this fine picture is typical of the whole one-sided investigation to date. It is high time that the Senate got a chance to vote on the tactics of its misguided subcommittee.

STRONG CONTROLS ARE NEEDED.

"As rapidly as possible." "Time is very essential." "We've waited too long now." Whether the testimony comes from Donald Nelson, from Bernard Baruch, from Senator Brooks of Illinois, running through every recommendation for price controls is the reminder that the clock of inflation is near to striking 12. Nelson, business-man boss of priorities, was the latest to warn the nation, and the dilatory House Banking Committee.

When urging immediate enactment of price controls yesterday, Nelson said he, too, thought Bernard Baruch's method of preventing price inflation was better than the administration's plan. However, he added, he thought it was now too late to apply the superior method.

Mr. Baruch advocates a general ceiling on all prices, all rents and all wages. Selecting a definite day, say last July 1 or June 1, Baruch would fix all prices, rents and wages as of that date. They could sink below the ceiling, but none would be allowed to rise above it without a show of sufficient cause.

The administration plan differs in several respects. It would not put wages under a ceiling at all. It would exclude farm products unless they rise above 110 per cent of parity, an unusually high level and one not reached at least since 1929. It would exempt rents, except in localities designated as defense housing areas. Furthermore, price ceilings would be invoked only for specific commodities, and then not until individual price rises made this necessary.

The administration's controls are much weaker than those Baruch advocates. For that reason, it seems that Mr. Nelson's logic has worked in reverse. The more serious the inflationary crisis becomes, the more necessary, it seems to us, for the stronger checks upon it.

Price controls, and strong ones, should be enacted at once.

A FINE PAIR OF VULTURES.

A new kind of vulture recently made his appearance in the news—the priority profiteer. Obtaining access somehow to scarce raw materials, he has been retailing them, at exorbitant prices, mainly to small businesses which fear that shortages and priorities may cut off their vital supplies. The Office of Production Management, it was reported the other day, has asked the Department of Justice to take action against this predatory breed.

Now a brother vulture wings into view—manufacturers who are granted scarce raw materials for the manufacture of defense products but who divert them to more profitable non-defense purposes. Field offices of five Government agencies are on their trail, and OPM, having cautioned several suspects, is prepared to shut off their supplies soon.

AN EXAMPLE OF MISDIRECTED ENERGY.

The heavy fighting in the war against smoke elimination has shifted from the St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Atlanta sectors to the Cincinnati front.

In St. Louis, the smoky coal forces were, of course, decisively routed. In Pittsburgh, they suffered a defeat mitigated by the fact that its ordinance will come into full force only after a period of several years. In Atlanta, on the other hand, the soot-peddlers turned apparent defeat into victory. Although local authorities were said to be in favor of a "St. Louis ordinance," the "Coal Producers' Committee for Smoke Abatement" succeeded in palming off its version of an anti-smoke law.

These people, however, know that one battle does not make a victory. They know that if they do not carry the day in Cincinnati, each succeeding field will be more ominous. And they realize that they must fight in at least 70 more cities.

Instead of hurling names at people who do not favor soot and smoke, who do not want Black Tuesdays, why do the soft-coal producers not realize that the St. Louis ordinance, which is everywhere the model, enlarges their outlet for stoker coal and raises no barrier against its use in stoves and hand-fired furnaces if it is processed?

Several processing methods are already available. These could be perfected, and better ones no doubt could be devised, if some of the energy now being put into the effort to block progress were directed toward co-operation with those who do no more than assert their right to enjoy clean winter air.

There's a hint in the preliminary investigation that the bottleneck in St. Louis' milk troubles is the bottle.

THIS IS THE DAY.

Missouri at Ohio State.
Minnesota at Washington.
Arizona at Notre Dame.
Oregon at Stanford.

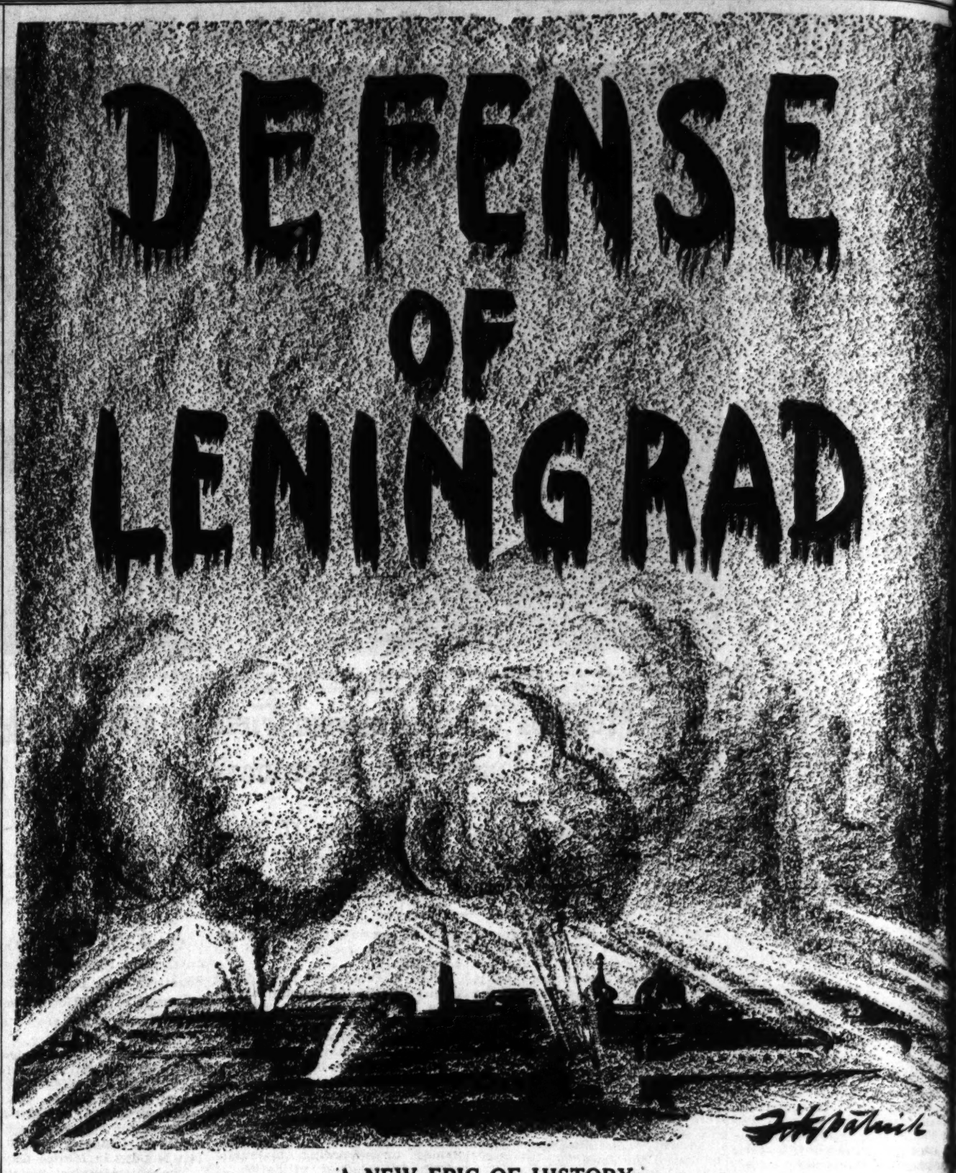
Yes, this is the day. The day that eyes turn from the diamond to the gridiron. The day the referee's whistle replaces the umpire's "Play ball!" The day that three rahs and a tiger are heard instead of "Kill dat bum!" The day that the National League and the American League are forgotten for the Ivy League, the Big Ten, the Big Six, the Coast Conference. The day that the T-formation supersedes the double play.

Oh, they'll be talking baseball in New York for a while longer, but New York, in spite of its conceit to the contrary, is not the United States. This is the day the country begins the football season. And a fine season it is.

The season when the tang comes into the air and the color into the leaves. The season when the big mums are pinned on the rough tweeds. The season when pumpkin pie and apple cider after the game are harbingers of the turkey and cranberries to come. The season when grandmothers are taken suddenly and dangerously ill only once a week, instead of every day.

The Cardinals did their best. Take it away, Billikens, Bears, Tigers!

About the time the House Banking Committee gets around to placing a ceiling on prices, it will need the army's new stereoscopic height finder to bring them in range of the legislation.



A NEW EPIC OF HISTORY.

Chicago: Campus and Battlefield

The Mirror of Public Opinion

University, now celebrating fiftieth anniversary, is hailed as 100 per cent American by philosopher; it began, under Harper, by formulating pragmatism as our native philosophy; Hutchins, in challenging the "Chicago School," has started the "Chicago Fight."

Mortimer J. Adler of the University of Chicago's Law Faculty, in Harper's.

THIS September the University of Chicago celebrates its fiftieth anniversary. This September the world may not have time or patience to give much attention to an academic celebration—to its learned symposia, its recital of degrees honoris causa, its ritual of eulogy.

But if there is still any time left for us to think about what we are doing, we might well use a little of it to consider the institution and development of a university which, more than any other, reflects the temper of our culture. Universities in general may symbolize the achievement of European civilization—the endurance of which now seems to depend upon soldiers, not gentlemen or scholars; but the University of Chicago, like the city in which it was founded, is almost 100 per cent American.

When Chicago got around to culture, she turned out an American brand. It was not merely a "new system of philosophy"—the pragmatism or humanism which William James applauded—but a new orientation of the higher learning itself.

Harper vigorously fought the American college system which, in his view, impeded the intellectual growth of able men by giving them heavy programs of undergraduate teaching. Teaching loads at Chicago were light, and promotion depended on successful research.

Money bought professors for Chicago; it could buy them back for Eastern institutions, as the competition for triple-starred names during the last half-century reveals. The important fact about Chicago—the fact so distinguishing that in this respect Chicago escapes comparison—is the intellectual life it has cultivated, and the influence which this has exerted, educationally and culturally, upon the rest of the country.

Whether it was an extraordinary accident, or whether Harper's feeling for the zeitgeist was so strong that he intuitively picked men in every field who uniformly reflected the same spirit, the remarkable fact remains that the University of Chicago had a central point of view which dominated most of its departments and united its faculty in a common enterprise.

The "evolutionary" conception of man as a system of reflexes which could be conditioned, as a bundle of drives which impelled him to adapt, gave rise to the new logic and the new ethics—both pragmatic in the sense that the ultimate criterion of the true or the good was successful adjustment, in thinking or action, to a changing world or a changing society.

But most important of all was the emphasis on change itself. Darwin had shattered the illusion of a static universe. Evolution made a mockery of the quest for certainty. Everything, including truth, is in flux. Creative intelligence must look to the contingent future. Novelty should be prized rather than feared; for with the aid of Science the Savior man could be optimistic about winning the struggle for existence under the most adverse and unforeseen circumstances.

Why should anyone have wished to reform the University of Chicago? Was it not everything a university should be, doing everything a university should do?

At its very center, exercising centrifugal force, was a hard core of negations and exclusions. The denial of metaphysics and theology as independent of empirical science, the denial of stability in the universe and certainty in human knowledge, the denial of moral values transcending adaptation to environment and escaping relativity to time and place, the denial of intellectual discipline in education and of the light shed by an abiding tradition of learning, the denial of a personal God, self-revealed, and of a Divine Providence concerned with man's supernatural salvation—these kept the ball rolling and gave it its terrific impact on American life.

If the positive points in the Chicago movement had been temperately affirmed, truth might have been increased, even transformed, by their addition; but there would probably be no record today of any Chicago School of Thought. Given a sharp, negative twist, they not only created a school of thought but unified its members in a crusading movement against the old and supposedly outworn.

What Hutchins attempted to establish at Chicago was not a new school of thought, just as exclusive in its own way as its predecessor. On the contrary, Hutchins' aim was synthesis—to relate science, philosophy and theology harmoniously without sacrificing the autonomy of each, to be contemporary and American in education without promoting militant modernism or cultural isolationism.

It takes more than one man or a few to make a school of thought in the sense in which Harper's Chicago deserved that description. In the past 10 years there have been numerous references to "the neo-scholastic movement at Chicago," "Chicago Thomism," "Aristotelianism on the Midway," "the revival of classicism," "the return to the Middle Ages"—all suggestive of the fact that Chicago had become the center of another orthodoxy, the seat of an opposite school of thought. That, however, is simply not the fact; and, surprising as this statement will seem to some of his opponents, I do not believe that Hutchins ever wished it to be. Justice could be done to modernity without throwing ancient wisdom out of court.

Just as Harper's Chicago reflected and formulated the "religion of science" which dominated American culture from the '90s to the '30s, so Hutchins' Chicago has focused attention upon—more than that, has become the leading forum for—the crucial issue of our day: whether science is enough, theoretically or practically; whether a culture can be healthy, whether democracy can be defended, if theology and metaphysics, ethics and politics are either despised or, what is the same, degraded to topics about which scientists pontificate after they have won the Nobel Prize.

The Chicago Fight now plays the role in American culture once played by the Chicago School. Chicago did not make the issues important. They had gradually risen to the forefront of popular consciousness. But Chicago was willing to see the fight through, wherever the chips fell. It did not run away from trouble by insisting upon academic dignity, by hiding behind the falseface of academic politeness. The University is incomparably alive and kicking.

A Small Town Editor Who Engaged in a Luxury: Honest

"Father and His Town," by Richard Barry (Houghton, Mifflin Co., Boston.)

GEORGE BARRY was an old newspaper man—60 years old, to be exact—when he landed in Ybel, Cal. He had $31 in his pocket which he had somehow managed to accumulate during 40 years of newspapering in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

The Ybel Independent needed an editor. It was owned mostly by Jim Tayler, the banker, and was a fine little money-loser. It was not what a banker would call an asset, but even as a liability, it had its uses for the man who ran the town. Of course, if it could be made to show a profit or just break even, that would be better.

George Barry convinced Banker Tayler that he was the man to pull the Independent out of the hole. All that the paper needed, he said, was an editor with the combined qualifications of a Judge, banker, manager, preacher, lawyer, salesman, reporter and barkeep, and with just enough gimp to see always two jumps ahead of Jim Tayler. George Barry said he had most, if not all, of these qualifications.

Jim Tayler had his doubts, but he had to admit that Barry did not lack assurance, and that was one thing that the Independent needed. So he hired Barry, and that was the beginning of "Father and His Town," as told by his son, Richard Barry, now that George Barry has gone to his earned reward.

Father made the town his through 25 years of editing the Independent, by living his creed—"The greatest of all luxuries is honesty. You can bask in it and it will sustain life and give you everything to boot that you want. Nobody ever cheats anyone except himself." His title as owner of the town was confessed when at a Rotary banquet Editor Barry was hailed as "the beloved confessor of us all, the hidden ruler of our destinies." F. A. BEHYMER.

Story of a Revolutionary.

"Zapata, the Unconquerable," by Edgcumb Pinchon (Doubleday, Doran & Co., New York.)

IN writing the story of one of Mexico's greatest agrarian revolutionaries, Mr. Pinchon works in a field hardly touched by Emiliano Zapata's own countrymen.

His book, the result of many years of painstaking research in the hot valleys of Morelos, shows how Zapata raised an army of peasants without supplies of any kind and gradually equipped his men with the loot of battle. With 12,000 mounted men carrying captured rifles, he swept the South of the Federal rurales by the time Villa marched on Mexico City from the North.

Before Zapata could see concrete results of his agrarian reform campaign, he was killed, the victim of a ruse. As the author says, "Then the head alone was dispatched under strong escort, to be displayed throughout Morelos—so as to convince any unbelieving folk that Zapata, the Unconquerable, was dead."

The Bertrand Russell Case.

WHAT was at issue in the now celebrated case involving Bertrand Russell, the distinguished British philosopher, and the College of the City of New York, where he was under contract to teach? Where do the principals stand now? These and many other questions about this turbulent affair are answered by nine scholars in "The Bertrand Russell Case" (The Viking Press, New York). The editors are John Dewey and Horace M. Kallen, who find that the social importance of the case far transcends the injustice to Mr. Russell. One of the conclusions is that Mayor LaGuardia must "accept a share of responsibility for allowing an attack upon moral and intellectual freedom to go by default."

CUDAHY WANTS 'AMERICAN WAY' DECISION ON WAR

Ambassador to Belgium Urges in Radio Address That Declaration Be Left Up to Congress.

SAYS 'SHOOT' ORDER BEWILDERS PEOPLE

Asserts State Department Declined His Offer of Information on What He Knew About Germany.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 27 (AP).—John Cudahy, former Ambassador to Belgium, urged last night that the American people weigh the evidence, "and if we enter the war of Europe, let us do so in the American way, by a declaration of Congress."

A supporter of President Roosevelt for re-election, Cudahy said in a CBS radio address that since the President's "shoot at sight" order the people were more bewildered than ever about the United States' position, "but we are not at war, for we have faith that ours is a government of laws, and a government of men."

The Neutrality Law, Cudahy continued, is the result of a study of the State Department of causes which, step by step, had brought us into that war of Europe 24 years ago and might lead us into another war unless we were prepared to stay out of it." He said:

"What has so changed the public judgment that even a vociferous minority can think of war now?

"Is it because we were wrong, or is it because of fear? Fear that this country may go down if we saw neutral, peace-loving Belgium go down before the brutal Hitler war machine? They say that if England falls and the British navy is captured, it will only be a question of a short time until the Nazis invade the Western Hemisphere."

He said the American people wanted to know if the Western Hemisphere is vulnerable to Hitler's attack, "but the men who know, the military experts, are silent."

Cudahy said he was eager to inform the State Department of what he had learned in Germany, including conversations with Hitler, but Sumner Welles, then Acting Secretary of State, "gave me to understand that he thought it inadvisable to see me because of my speculation."

"Military experts alone, he said, could have challenged Hitler's statement to him that "the conquest of the Western Hemisphere by German arms was as fantastic as an invasion of the moon." He added:

"Why do not the military men speak now when millions of patriotic Americans are troubled and perplexed and are willing to sacrifice all for the defense of our country, if need be, asking only for the truth?"

1ST ARMY POWDER PLANT REACHES FULL PRODUCTION

Lines in Operation at Virginia Factory; Expected to Run at 100,000-Lb. Daily Capacity Soon.

RADFORD, Va., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Radford Ordnance Works, a $40,000,000 powder plant on a 4120-acre reservation near Radford, yesterday became the first of the army's new powder plants to have lines in operation.

Operations also started at the Radford plant's new proving grounds and the first unit of the new loading plant at Dublin, Va.

Smokeless powder production on Radford's third line was started as the boom of cannon at the proving ground and within a few weeks, it is estimated by officials, the capacity production of 300,000 pounds of powder daily, will be attained.

Until the Radford plant began operation, the nation was producing about 50,000 pounds of powder daily.

Both the Radford and Dublin plants are operated by the Hercules Powder Co., under Army supervision.

Windsor Makes Brief C... Duchess Greets Crow...

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor spent three hours in Chicago today on their way from Washington to the Duke's ranch in Alberta, Canada. They will make a short stop in Minneapolis tonight.

Lewis Bernays, British Consul General, escorted the Duke on a brief automobile tour of the lake front. First the former King of England was whisked up 45 floors to the Board of Trade Building to view the city.

He signed a bold "Edward" in the visitors' register, then descended to drive to Soldier Field and other nearby points.

MRS. CLARK ASSAILS JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Wife of Missouri Senator Says It Tries to Smear America First Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, chairman of the Washington chapter of the America First Committee, accused the Justice Department yesterday of an effort to smear the committee.

She referred to the Department's action in hauling away sacks of material from the committee offices in connection with a grand jury inquiry to ascertain whether an act requiring foreign agents to register had been violated.

The material seized, said Mrs. Clark, wife of the Senator from Missouri, was "just franked speeches by various Senators." She said "the rotten-egg technique has finally reached Washington."

Wendell Berge, Assistant Attorney General, said the Department was not investigating any group because it opposes administration policies. He said the subpena carries merely gathered up material that had been transferred to the America First Committee offices from the apartment of Prescott Dennett, secretary of the Make-Europe-Pay-War-Debts committee.

Dennett has been a witness before the grand jury for several days.

"The (Justice) department learned that certain materials had been transferred from Mr. Dennett's Washington apartment to the America First committee within an hour after Mr. Dennett had been served with a subpena," Berge said.

Mrs. Clark said she did not know who delivered the speeches to her office and that she did not know Dennett.

The Washington Star quoted Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep.), New York, as saying that Dennett had called Fish's office and said he had 500 old speeches by the Representative. One of Fish's secretaries, the Congressman related, decided to obtain the speeches for use by Fish's office, and accordingly sent a House truck after them.

The truck, Fish continued, came back loaded with sacks addressed to the America First Committee, so the secretary rejected them, telling the driver to take them to the committee.

FATALLY SHOT AFTER DISPUTE

East St. Louis Laborer Killed on Street.

Grover Rimmer, Negro laborer, 411½ Bowman avenue, East St. Louis, was shot to death last night by Ad McNair, Negro, after an argument in front of a tavern in the 4100 block of Tudor avenue, Fireworks Station.

Constable Frank Baur of Centerville Township said McNair fired a shot as Rimmer walked away, the bullet striking Rimmer in the neck. McNair said he was intoxicated at the time and did not know what they had been arguing about.

Parachutists 'Destroy' Supplies Of Attacking Force in War Games

50 of 127 Jumpers Captured, But 'Sacrifice Mission' Is Carried Out—2nd Army Steadily Retreating.

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 27 (AP).—Pestered but not seriously hurt by parachute troops, the Third Army kept to its purpose in the Louisiana war games today, tightly wedging the Second Army between the Red and Sabine Rivers within 40 miles of Shreveport.

Almost 59 of 127 parachutists injected into the contest were captured during the night, but they fulfilled their "sacrifice mission" of sabotage.

Unlike the initial parachute attack last week which was kept secret to enhance its surprise value, yesterday's jump was watched by official and unofficial observers.

The 119 enlisted men and eight officers flung themselves out of the Army transports at 1200 feet and cleared their planes in 10 minutes, seven minutes faster than last week's jumps.

Each of the men from Company A, 502nd Parachute Battalion, Fort Benning, Ga., had a pistol, two grenades, canned rations and two chocolate bars with him on the jump. Other planes dumped varicolored parachutes from which swung bundles of rifles, machine guns, mortars and ammunition.

The jumpers fanned out, most of them going to a nearby wood to wait for darkness so they could destroy, theoretically, gasoline, ammunition and ration dumps and several communication lines.

Gen. George C. Marshall witnessed the demonstration from a plane flying over the field. He will remain today while the Third Army rushes on to Shreveport, trying to pierce the Second Army's ever-backing defenses.

While infantry divisions kept pressure on a strong main front, the Second Armored Division, First Cavalry Division and the Second Infantry Division, a comparatively fast motorized combination of three infantry-artillery teams, rushed forward on both sides of the Sabine River. These units are pressing for a decisive blow that would end the week's training exercises.

PRESIDENT AT SERVICE FOR HALL ROOSEVELT

He and Wife Attend Rites at Family Mausoleum, Then Go to Hyde Park.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP).—President and Mrs. Roosevelt came to their home here beside the Hudson today after attending services for Mrs. Roosevelt's only brother, G. Hall Roosevelt, at Tivoli, N. Y.

Early this morning they left a special train which had brought the body from Washington and drove to the black brick and gray stone mausoleum of Mrs. Roosevelt's family in the yard of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Tivoli.

In the presence of a score of relatives and friends, the Episcopal order for burial of the dead was read by the Rector of the church, the Rev. Charles Daws Champlin.

The services lasted less than 20 minutes, and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the wooded cemetery and motored to their home here to spend the week end. It was here that the President's mother died three weeks ago.

The funeral of the 50-year-old engineer and banker, who died in the Capital Thursday, was held yesterday at the White House. The Episcopalian ritual was read by Capt. J. C. W. Linsley, Army chaplain from Fort Myer, Va.

Aboard the train were Capt. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President; Henry Roosevelt, and Mrs. Edward Elliott, son and daughter of Hall Roosevelt, and Mrs. Elliott's husband.

LIFE-SAVING EQUIPMENT BOUGHT FOR THE MERAMEC

Inhalator, Paid for by Public Subscription, to Be Kept in Eureka.

An inhalator and other life saving equipment for use along a 40-mile stretch of the Meramec River from Catawissa to Fenton have been purchased by public subscription and placed with Constable Joseph Feco of Eureka. He will instruct someone in each river-front community in the operation of the inhalator so that trained men may be available for the swimming season next summer.

Previously it has been necessary to send to St. Louis for an inhalator. The inhalator and equipment cost $550, donated by residents of the river valley in Franklin, Jefferson and St. Louis counties.

STEAMER SAILS FROM JAPAN WITH 361 BRITISH SUBJECTS

TOKYO, Sept. 27 (AP).—The steamship Anhui, sent to Japan to remove British nationals, sailed from Yokohama for Singapore tonight after a delay occasioned by the rigorous search of the 361 British and Indian passengers.

The Japan Times and Advertiser said "not one seam of a suit, not one fold of a skirt was left unnoticed. . . . Three diamonds and $50 in American money were discovered under the soles of a certain Indian gentleman's shoes."

Customs inspectors said the examination was imposed because of strict measures taken by British authorities toward departing Japanese at Hongkong.

The Japanese Foreign Office announced that the steamer Hei Maru was dispatched Sept. 22 from Kobe to remove about 300 Japanese from India, the Near East and East Africa and that it is expected to return about Nov. 15.

Sir John Grieg Latham, Australian Minister to Tokyo, is among the Anhui's passengers. He said he had been called home but expected to return.

Elected to M. A. C. Board.

Herbert W. Waltke, vice-president and secretary of the Waltke Investment Co., has been elected to the board of governors of the Missouri Athletic Club to fill a vacancy occasioned by the resignation of E. E. Pershall, chairman of the board of directors of the T. J. Moss Tie Co. Two of Waltke's brothers, the late Louis A. Waltke and Richard H. Waltke served on previous boards of the club.

Windsor Makes Brief Chicago Tour; Duchess Greets Crowd at Station

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP).—The ke and Duchess of Windsor nt three hours in Chicago today their way from Washington to Duke's ranch in Alberta, Can- They will make a short stop Minneapolis tonight.

wis Bernays, British Consul eral, escorted the Duke on a automobile tour of the lake t. First the former King of land was whisked up 45 floors the Board of Trade Building to the city.

e signed a bold "Edward" in visitors' register, then descend- to drive to Soldier Field and r nearby points.

A crowd, most of them women, was disappointed not to see the Duchess when their train arrived. She remained in seclusion until a Chicago eye specialist called to treat a painful sty. Then she made a brief appearance on the rear platform, waving at the crowd and smiling.

The Duke and Duchess scored a hit with a large crowd at Pittsburgh last night by making a platform appearance during a brief stop.

The Duke waved aside questions on the international situation and exchanged pleasantries with the crowd.

N Y E EXPECTING ATTACK IN SENATE ON MOVIE INQUIRY

Says Statements by McFarland Indicate Administration Will Take Action Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP).—Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, challenged the administration today to a Senate showdown on the question of continuing an Interstate Commerce subcommittee investigation of alleged propaganda in the movies.

Nye, co-author with Senator Bennett Champ Clark (Dem.), Missouri, of a resolution calling for a formal inquiry, told reporters that statements made by Senator McFarland (Dem.), Arizona, at a tumultuous committee session yesterday indicated the administration would make an attack on the inquiry in the Senate next week.

"If the issue is raised," Nye asserted, "there is much that can be said and will be said in defense of the resolution authorizing the inquiry."

Views on Senate Action.

McFarland, who objected strenuously to the introduction of testimony dealing with alleged discrimination by the British Purchasing Commission against employment of persons of Jewish, German or Southern Irish descent, previously had asserted that no more than 18 Senators, far short of a majority, would support a move to continue the investigation.

On the other hand, Chairman D. Worth Clark (Dem.), Idaho, said he believed the Senate would give its approval to additional hearings. The committee is in recess until Oct. 6, when Charles Chaplin, movie comedian, has been supenaed to appear.

There were indications, however, that Chaplin might be excused from testifying and the committee's work might be closed after hearing from Will Hays, movie czar, and viewing pictures against which complaints have been made.

The employment policies of the British Purchasing Commission provided a dramatic interlude yesterday in a day given over largely to testimony by Darryl Zanuck, production chief of Twentieth Century-Fox, who denied that there was any concerted effort on the part of Hollywood to produce propaganda films.

British Hiring Policy.

When Senator Tobey (Rep.), New Hampshire, said he wanted to produce witnesses to substantiate charges he previously had laid before the group that the British were not hiring persons of Jewish, German or Southern Irish descent, McFarland objected that he had not been notified in advance of the names of the witnesses.

Overriding McFarland's attempt to adjourn the hearing, the committee called Charlotte Pairo Oehmann, an employe of a Washington secretarial school. Miss Oehmann, who testified that her professional name was Miss Black, said she had been told not to send those of Jewish, German or Southern Irish descent to the mission for jobs.

McFarland, cross-examining her, brought out the fact that she had not personally received any such orders from any British official.

Previously McFarland had read to the committee a letter from the British agency denying any such discrimination.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY COURT NAMES PLANNING COMMISSION

Group Will Function Under Law Superseding One Declared Unconstitutional.

The St. Louis County Court appointed a County Planning Commission yesterday to function under the new planning and zoning law, which superseded a statute declared unconstitutional.

GUIDE TO THE NEW MOVIES

By Colvin McPherson

SERGEANT YORK—How a Tennessee mountaineer, Gary Cooper, turned from the ways of wickedness and rounded up a flock of the heathen in the Argonne Forest. An extraordinarily fine picture, based on fact. At the MISSOURI.

CITIZEN KANE—Orson Welles' portrait of a publisher. Brilliantly made and excitingly original, but hardly pleasant. With four delightful Disney cartoons, at the FOX.

LADIES IN RETIREMENT—Crime in the marshes, with Ida Lupino as the central figure. Really frightening to those who come upon it unaware. With "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," hilarious Robert Montgomery comedy from last week, at the AMBASSADOR.

HONKY TONK—Clark Gable as the boss of Yellow Creek, Lana Turner as the gal who tricks him into marriage. Except at times, not highly stimulating. With choice short subjects, at LOEW'S.

THE FACE BEHIND THE MASK—Peter Lorre with a face that's just too, too horrible. "The Invisible Ghost" is about Bela Lugosi going into his trance. At the ST. LOUIS.

DOROTHY THOMPSON WRITES

"ON THE RECORD"

THE SHOOTING OF HOSTAGES

SINCE totalitarian war became the first item on the agenda of the totalitarian state, the world has come to accept without protest the theory that anything is fair in war.

A young person, not familiar with the history of civilization, might take it for granted that in all wars there has been no limit to brutalities. But, actually, there always have been limits—there have been codes of international practice outlawing outrageously unjust actions. Even in a war to the death, some concessions were previously made to the conscience of mankind, and the customs of peace.

The International Red Cross was but a nineteenth century manifestation of the eighteenth century's "law of nations," which sought to remind men that even in war they should do as little damage as possible to civilized institutions and practices. Thus, hospital areas were not to be bombed; prisoners of war were not to be executed; ambulances bearing wounded were to be respected.

THESE remarks are elicited by the reports that have been appearing regularly in the newspapers of the shooting of hostages by the German armies of occupation. Not a single nation, or group in any country, has protested against this. The Christian church has not protested. The free universities of the democracies have not protested. As far as I recall, the Pope has not protested. The President or Congress of the United States has not protested.

It will be said that protest would be totally ineffective. It probably would be, for all the influence it would have on the Nazis. Nevertheless, that protest should be registered, as a matter of record of the point of view of civilized human beings and as assurance to the people in the occupied countries that their fate is not a matter of indifference.

And I beg the Congress of the United States, which represents a nation that stands for freedom under law, to pass a condemnatory resolution and present it to the German Government in the name of humanity, decency, and a morality that transcends even mortal strife between nations.

THE German Army began this practice of mass murder of the innocent in the last war, when French and Belgian francs-tireurs, which is war language for snipers, took shots at German soldiers and officers of the armies of occupation.

But nothing done by the Germans in the last war is comparable to what is being done now. A dispatch on Sept. 21 says that 12 French hostages were executed for the assassination of Capt. Scheben. Hostages are daily being shot for acts of espionage and sabotage committed by unknown persons. In Serbia, as many as 50 hostages have been shot for the murder of a single German. Recently a German was shot from a hotel, and a squad immediately entered the restaurant of the hotel, took out the first 20 men at hand, and shot every other one of them. Actually 11 died because one collapsed of heart failure.

IN this shooting of hostages is the complete breakdown of any sort of law whatsoever. No connection is established between the hostages and the crime—the hostages are shot purely as an act of terror to quell the population.

Five, 10, 20, 50 innocent men must die, by arbitrary selection, for the crime of someone else. A Serbian bridge is blown up, and 50 Serbian peasants are collected from the nearest fields and strung up to their own fruit trees, without any attempt at investigation or trial.

The practice is not only admitted by the German authorities—they brag of it. It is the only efficient way, they argue, of keeping order.

APPARENTLY this is the German new order. Other armies of occupation in conquered countries have not resorted to such methods. Germany, itself, after the last war, was occupied by French, British and American troops. The German population committed acts of sabotage and terror against those armies of occupation. The guilty were usually apprehended and if the act was particularly heinous, they were executed. One of them is regarded as a Nazi hero: Leo Schlageter. The Nazis, who are so piously outraged by the behavior of the French, erected a monument to him.

Schlageter blew up a railroad bridge at Duisburg, and the Allied armies of occupation executed him. But never, never, did they execute innocent people in order to terrorize the population.

There was, of course, a reason for this. The British, French and American governments and armies were defending due process of law, in national and international relations. They knew that lawlessness breeds lawlessness, and that authority is kept by swift but just punishment. Mass murder is not justice; it is mass murder. It cannot be an instrument of order, because it is by its very nature disorder. It is no enforcement of law, because it is arbitrary and lawless.

Those who think that Hitler's new order means anything like law and order should take cognizance of this shooting of hostages.

MEANWHILE, the guardians of ordered civilization and legitimate government in the United States Congress, in the British Parliament, in the churches, schools and colleges of this country and Britain, should make a formal protest. Some time the history of civilization in the twentieth century will be written, and for the sake of our place in that history there ought to be a record of our condemnation.

We ought also to do it for the sake of humanity and our own souls, because we tend to become hardened, calloused and indifferent through every outrage and assault on decency and law that we accept as a matter of course.

HORSE SHOW TONIGHT; RECORD ENTRY LIST

Competitive Events to Continue for Week With Eight on Opening Program.

The St. Louis National Horse Show, with a record list of entries for a week of competitive events, will open at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the Arena. Net proceeds will be given to the St. Louis Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

Eight competitive events, featuring saddle horses, jumpers, ponies and heavy harness horses, will comprise tonight's inaugural program. Special events include a coaching exhibition by Harry J. Burkart, a director of the St. Louis Horse Show Association; a drill exhibit by uniformed riders of Victor McLaglen's Light Horse Troop of Hollywood, and music by Sammy Kaye's dance orchestra.

There will be performances every night except tomorrow, when there will be a matinee instead of an evening program. Other matinees will be Wednesday and next Saturday. Evening shows will begin at 7:45 o'clock, and matinees at 1:45.

McLaglen's drill troop and Kaye's orchestra will be regular features at all performances. In addition, Kaye's band will provide music for dancing following the shows in the west Arena building.

Time table of tonight's program:

Finnish Election Deferment Urged.

HELSINKI, Sept. 27 (AP).—President Risto Ryti of Finland proposed today that parliamentary elections, due next year, be postponed until 1944 because of the emergency.

TAKING OF HUNAN CAPITAL CLAIMED BY THE JAPANESE

Chinese Army Spokesman, However, Denies Loss of Changsha, Important Grain Center.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Japanese army announced today the capture of Changsha.

The Japanese previously had announced that their troops entered Changsha's suburbs from the northeast and were fighting hand-to-hand with Chinese defenders in the outskirts of the Hunan Province capital, important for its rice and wheat stores and as a station on the Canton-Hankow railway.

(A Chinese army spokesman in Chungking said that the city still was in Chinese hands and that there was no truth even in the assertion that Japanese forces had driven into its outskirts.)

Japanese Writer Urges Germany to Make Peace With Russia.

TOKYO, Sept. 27 (AP).—Japan observed in subdued fashion today the first anniversary of its adherence to the triparite pact with Germany and Italy, and a prominent newspaper commentator urged that Germany patch up peace with Russia and turn against Britain if Axis aims for a "new world order" ever are to be realized.

The commentator, Teiichi Muto, writing in the newspaper Hochi, said:

"What we desire of Germany is that she should not lose fighting strength against Britain on account of the war against Russia, which is of secondary importance at present.

"It is highly desirable that Germany should bring the war with the Soviet Union to a close as soon as possible and thus revert to warfare against Britain, which was the original object of the present European war."

He said Japan had been taken completely by surprise in August, 1939, when Germany made a nonaggression pact with Russia, but had decided this was "in line with the needs of the times," only to be surprised again when Germany went to war with Russia on June 22 last.

War against Russia might be interpreted as a requisite to war against Britain, he said, but Japan nevertheless would be considerably encouraged if Germany and Russia made a separate peace when a certain state of the campaign was reached.

Foreign Minister Teijiro Toyoda, speaking at the Government's only ceremonial recognition of the anniversary, urged the three Axis nations to "surmount whatever difficulties may be in the path."

Five thousand persons at Kyoritsu Auditorium cheered the reading of a message in which former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who represented Japan in forming the Axis alliance, declared the nation "should proceed on her way in accordance with the letter and spirit of the tripartite pact."

'OPEN HOUSE' AT BARRACKS

Visiting Hours Tomorrow From 12:15 to 5 P. M.

The second "open House" program in two weeks will be held at Jefferson Barracks tomorrow from 12:15 to 5 p. m. to give visitors a more comprehensive picture of the post than was possible when 15,000 persons jammed the barracks grounds two Sundays ago.

Visitors are to be admitted by the north gate at Broadway, where mimeographed sheets listing points of interest will be issued and special escorts assigned if desired. The gates to the grounds will be closed at 3 p. m. when a review is scheduled to begin before Lieut.-Col. Raymond R. Brown, post commander.

NEW POST FOR R. B. DESCHNER

To Be Manager of State Employment Service Office Here.

Appointment of R. B. Deschner as manager of the St. Louis office of the Missouri State Employment Service was announced yesterday by Elmer John Keitel Sr., chairman of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of Missouri.

Since June 1, Deschner has been acting manager of all operations of the St. Louis office. He has been employed by the commission since 1938. Deschner formerly was an independent oil operator. He is 42 years old, is married, and lives at 423 Gill avenue, Kirkwood.

CORN ACREAGE ALLOTMENT ANNOUNCED FOR MISSOURI

Virtually Same as This Year; Individual Allocations by Oct. 15 Sought by AAA.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 27 (AP).—Missouri will have a corn acreage allotment of 2,962,975 acres and a commercial corn area of 63 counties in 1942, C. W. Sheppard, chairman of the Missouri Agricultural Adjustment Administration committee, announced today.

The 1942 allotment is virtually the same as the 1941 quota of 2,929,469 acres. The allotments for individual farms will remain the same as in 1941 with few exceptions.

The State AAA committee is asking county committees to make individual farm allotments ready for distribution by Oct. 15.

OUSTED SHAH OF IRAN SAILS; HAS TRANSIT VISA FOR INDIA

TEHERAN, Sept. 27 (AP).—The exiled Shah of Iran, Reza Pahlavi, is reported to have sailed today from Bandar Abbas, on the Persian Gulf. He carried a transit visa for India, it is understood, but his ultimate destination is believed to be South America.

Red Army's Political Commissars Share Risks With Troops at Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

WITH THE RED ARMY AT THE FRONT, Sept. 27 (AP). — The political commissar, whom Premier Joseph Stalin has called "the father and soul of the regiment," is back at his old post peculiar to the Red army, sharing command with military officers.

The political commissar system, which was dropped after the Russian-Finnish war in 1939-40, was revived soon after Germany launched its drive to the east. Now commissars are seen side by side with the commanders of each army, division and regiment. Each smaller unit has a "political worker."

Relations between the political and military officers, based on a tradition founded more than 20 years ago, appear to be close and sympathetic and the system, after a one-year lapse, seems to work smoothly.

Except for red, diamond-shaped insignia on their collars, commissars look like any other whaki-clad officers in this army.

They countersign all military orders, go into action and generally share in the military as well as political life of their units.

I talked with several of them behind the front lines.

They have a three-fold task, one said, listing political education, military education and the realization of military objectives.

Lectures, newspapers, books, motion pictures and training in the care of equipment are included in the educational process.

IRREGULARLY HIGHER LIST MARKS SLOW STOCK TRADE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—The stock market shook off some of its fear complex today and leading issues managed to retrieve portions of the sharp declines suffered this week.

While scattered recoveries of a point or so were in evidence at the close, fractional plus signs were the rule. A number of soft spots also were seen and numerous recent blacksliders were at a standstill.

Rails were among the best performers, these having been resistant to the slump of the past few days. Steels, motors, mail orders and specialties gave a good account of themselves.

The principal cloud over the brief session was that dealings were relatively apathetic throughout.

Transfers of 194,420 shares were among the lowest for a two-hour stretch in more than a month.

Brokers found nothing particularly outstanding in the day's news budget to account for the moderate revival of optimistic sentiment. It was suggested, though, that the mild bidding that appeared might have been prompted by the thought the Treasury's proposed 6 per cent ceiling on corporate profits would die in Congress.

The idea the market may have been oversold was given some credit for comeback tendencies.

One commentator recalled that, back in March, when the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production stood at 118, compared with 162 at present, the market value of listed shares on the N. Y. exchange was placed at $62,617,000,000, whereas at the end of August the aggregate had fallen to $41,472,000,000.

War developments still were watched closely but it was remarked that trends seemed to be showing more and more immunity to foreign shocks. The business picture remained fairly constructive.

Stocks in front most of the time included Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Erie preferred "A" (when issued), Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber preferred, Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, Philip Morris, Pepsi-Cola, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge and Socony Vacuum.

Dow Chemical hit another new low after its eight-point drop Friday.

In the curb support was given Glen Alden Coal, International Petroleum, Bell Aircraft, American Export Lines and Cessna Aircraft.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 3 TO 7 POINTS LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—Cotton prices continued downward today, with quotations sagging to new low ground. Hedging against large sales of spot cotton in the South and outside liquidation, attributed in part to Bombay selling, outweighed moderately active New Orleans support and trade buying at the limits.

Futures closed 3@7 lower.

Frisco Railway Report.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co. reported August operating revenues of $5,300,076, increase of $1,381,911 over corresponding 1940 month; net railway operating income, $1,316,237, increase of $944,297, and balance available for interest, etc., of $1,327,168, increase of $946,695.

For the eight months ended Aug. 31, operating revenues were $39,289,053, an increase of $8,750,704 compared with year ago; net railway operating income of $7,633,575, an increase of $5,828,245, and balance available for interest, etc., of $7,740,539, an increase of $5,874,138.

Tire Casings Stocks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., reported that stocks of automobile tire casings in the hands of manufacturers on Aug. 31 totaled 5,834,109, a decline of 6.4 per cent from July 31 and 41.1 per cent from Aug. 31, 1940.

August shipments of 5,399,702 tires were 16.4 per cent below those of July but 31 per cent above those of August, 1940.

August production of 5,004,912 tires was 10.7 per cent under July but 7 per cent above August, 1940.

Bank of Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Reichsbank statement as of Sept. 23, compared with that of Sept. 19, showed (in thousands of reichsmarks): Gold and foreign exchange 77,824, increase 457; bills of exchange and checks 17,264,605, decrease 146,125; securities 21,666, increase 501; other assets 1,171,465, increase 13,201; circulation 15,827,757, decrease 234,015; sight deposits 2,258,371, increase 129,649; reserve ratio, 0.49 per cent; bank rate, 3½ per cent.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—Selected speculative railroad bonds moved higher toward the end of first half of today's short trading session, in a continuation of yesterday's trend.

A few sizeable lots of first-class industrials changed hands at prices unchanged to ½c higher than the previous close.

United States Treasuries were steady to 1-32 point higher on over-the-counter trading and stock exchange quotations on the governments were about unchanged. Foreign bonds were inactive.

Domestic issues on the upside included New York Central 4½s and 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s and 5½s, Wabash 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s of '69, Illinois Central 4¾s and Erie 5s of '75.

Among the few which registered lower prices at one time were International Mercantile Marine 6s, American & Foreign Power 5s and Shell Union 2½s.

WHEAT IN FURTHER GAIN AS WEEK CLOSES

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP).—Wheat and oats registered gains of almost a cent and corn and rye were up as much as a cent or more today.

The grain market continued to display underlying strength which traders said was based on the expanding lend-lease program, inflation talk, the Government loan program and wartime psychology.

Although buying at no time was on a large scale, coming mostly from professionals and processing interests, the market was not burdened by any unusual selling except at the opening when wheat had to absorb profit taking and hedging sales.

Evidence of possible greater use of corn for industrial purposes during the defense emergency and rumors that Canadian and U. S. Government officials are arranging for a large food pool, including grains, with which to feed Europe after the war ends attracted trade attention. Firmness of securities and an official report that as of Sept. 20 farmers had sealed 206,399,000 bushels of new wheat under Government loans also were factors.

Soybeans shot up as much as 2 cents as a result of buying attributed to processors and brokers, based partly on the premium quoted for actual beans.

Wheat closed ⅜@⅝c higher than yesterday, Dec., $1.22⅜@¼; May, $1.26⅝@½; corn ⅜@¾c up, Dec., 81⅞c; May, 87⅜c; oats, ⅜@¾c up; soybeans ⅞@2⅛c higher and rye ¼@¾c up.

Plans to convert about 20,000,000 bushels of Government corn into industrial alcohol for manufacture of explosives and prospects that increased quantities of grain may be used for this purpose in addition to demand for feed associated with the lend-lease program were strengthening factors.

Traders estimated the United States and Canada have close to a billion bushels of surplus wheat available for export, the largest volume ever amassed. The U. S. supply of 1,344,000,000 bushels is double normal domestic requirements for a year.

Lard prices advanced slightly in sympathy with grains early.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 27.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was ½c higher; corn and oats nominally ½c higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

COMMODITIES

Commodity futures prices moved irregularly Saturday but generally resisting selling pressure.

New York cotton quotations dropped 15 to 35 cents a bale under hedge selling which followed large spot cotton sales in the South. Cottonseed oil was unchanged to a shade lower in week-end evening up.

At Chicago, all grains advanced in moderate volume with demand based on continued talk of large war and post-war needs. Soybeans, given added stimulation by the strong interest in spot supplies, gained ⅞ to 2⅛ cents a bushel.

EX-CONVICT HELD; $16,500 REALTY FRAUD CHARGE

Co. at 6677 Delmar boulevard, were interested in obtaining exchange of the deeds so that Lesser could obtain a better investment.

Lesser related, according to Shoulders, that Rosenfeld said the deeds Lesser held were of little value compared to the real estate deeds the Schiller firm could obtain for him instead. Lesser asked for time to think the proposition over, and ascertained that the Schiller company actually existed and did business at the University City address.

Lesser, reassured, then got in touch with Rosenfeld, and the two went to Lesser's bank, where Lesser withdrew the nine deeds and the stock from his safe deposit box. He gave them to Rosenfeld, who said he wanted to show them to "the big boss," Mandell, adding that the realty company would try to sell the stock for Government bonds.

Several days later, Rosenfeld took the Lessers to the real estate office, where he introduced them to Mandell. Rosenfeld told the Lessers the company had made a careful inspection of the deeds and found the property involved was the "worst, most valueless" the firm had ever examined. He added that if Lesser held the deeds, his holdings would be wiped out within six months.

He suggested, instead, that Lesser permit the company to trade the deeds for deeds on University City property that had real value and would pay high returns. The following Sunday Mandell and Rosenfeld drove by the Lesser home, picked up the Lessers and Lesser's sister, Miss Ida Lesser, and drove them around the blocks of Maryland, Westmoreland and Pershing and a district originally known as the Maryland Terrace subdivision.

The Lessers were told that the district was being promoted by the Schiller firm, and that it was in this highly priced real estate section that they could obtain property in exchange for the deeds they held. Rosenfeld pointed out several improved lots as the specific pieces of property the Lessers would obtain. The Lessers were convinced. Lesser told Mandell and Rosenfeld to make the switch.

Next day Rosenfeld brought the nine deeds and the Scruggs stock to the Lesser home and Lesser signed them over to the real estate company. In return Lesser was given other deeds, which he now says he failed to examine carefully, but which he deposited in his safe deposit box.

A week or so later, in October, Rosenfeld took Lesser to the First National Bank to get Lesser's signatures on the Scruggs stock, to enable Rosenfeld to sell it.

Lesser waited, but heard no more about the deal. In March, 1941, he became restive and went to the Schiller realty office in University City. It was vacant and University City police informed Lesser that both Mandell and Rosenfeld were serving penitentiary terms for mail fraud.

Lesser and authorities then examined the deeds he had received from the two men and found they were for 15 lots in the South Maryland Heights subdivision, on Dorsett road west of Lindbergh boulevard in St. Louis County, and nine miles from the Maryland Terrace subdivision.

A total assessed value of $ was placed on the 15 lots by appraisers consulted by Lesser. Fr John B. Ghio, real estate man with offices at 6200 Easton avenue, who originally sold the parcels of property to Mandell and Rosenfeld, told Lesser learned the promoters had bought 100 lots in that district in 1938 for $37.50 a lot. "I thought it was kind of funny," Ghio recalled, "as no one else wanted those lots."

Mandell was sentenced to years on the mail fraud charge which involved the sale of fake civil service training courses to farm boys and others throughout the country, but was released after a year and 10 months. Rosenfeld still is in the Federal Reformatory at Terre Haute, Ind.

Mandell has been residing at 1020 Art Hill place since his release. He is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 6 in Circuit Judge William J. Koerner's court on a charge of obtaining $8200 under false pretenses in 1938 from Mrs. Maria Springer, 3514 Sidney street, in a fake real estate deal. The transaction also was made through the Schiller Real Estate Co. Mandell was indicted on this charge in July, 1940, before his release from prison.

Shoulders said the Better Business Bureau had turned over to the Circuit Attorney's office a list of persons who had inquired at the bureau as to the reliability of Mandell's new realty firm.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN BEATING OF AGED SISTERS; ONE DIES

Pennsylvania Woman, Attacked Wednesday Night, Never Regains Consciousness.

MEDIA, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP). Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, elder of two sisters beaten near their home Wednesday night, died early today in Chester Hospital while authorities questioned a suspect arrested five hours earlier.

Mrs. Watson, 83 years old, never regained consciousness.

Her sister, Miss Belle Geary, who is still in a serious condition in the hospital, told police a "tall young man with dark hair and a pink shirt" attacked them as they returned home from a restaurant. The two women lived alone.

FRANCIS FIELD, Sept. 27. — With the official opening of their season—a game against the Kansas Jayhawkers at Lawrence—still a week away, the Washington University Varsity this afternoon met the strong Bear freshman squad. The game was interesting in that the strength of the 1941 Bears might be indicated and that of their 1942 replacements shown.

The contest was under regular game conditions except that the Varsity players performed without numbers.

The attendance was estimated at 500.

FIRST QUARTER.

After the Varsity kicked off the Freshmen failed on two plays and the ensuing kick was blocked, the Varsity taking over on the 19-yard line. The Varsity lost the ball on downs and Tevis kicked out of danger for the Frosh. From the Freshman 39-yard line Schwenk passed to Hefelfinger, who went to the three-yard mark. The teams exchanged five-yard penalties. After two plays failed Schwenk passed to Pufalt for the first touchdown and Schwenk converted to make the score Varsity 7, Freshmen 0.

The Freshman offense didn't click after the kickoff and that of the Varsity also bogged down, with the Freshmen getting the ball on their own 35-yard line.

DUROCHER PREDICTS A HOT FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—A song of defiance came from the Brooklyn Dodgers as Manager Leo (Lippy) Durocher gave the public a peek at his strategy for the world series with the New York Yankees.

His four starting pitchers will be Whitlow Wyatt, Kirby Higbe, Curt Davis and Fred Fitzsimmons, although not necessarily in that order, he disclosed, and the first fireman called for relief every day will be Hugh Casey.

This was hardly startling information for the roomful of reporters who gathered at Durocher's suite in a midtown hotel, but the dapper, talkative skipper of the new National League champions, went on from there.

"My gang is confident," he vouched. "I know they're not afraid of 'em. I won't make a prediction who will win. The only thing I know for sure is that the first game will be played Wednesday in Yankee Stadium and we'll be there. But you can bet your life it will be a hell of a battle.

We've Got the Power.

"They talk about 'you can't make a mistake against the Yanks or they'll blow your brains out.' Well, I'll say this: They better not make a mistake against us, either. We've got power, too. They better not groove one for Lavagetto, or Camilli, or Medwick, or Reiser."

Durocher refused to be drawn into an outright statement that Wyatt, his pitching ace, would be his first choice, but retorted with obvious intent:

"Who would you pick?"

Then in a discussion of his pitchers' chances, he added:

"I'm not worried about Wyatt. He'll take care of himself.

"Higbe? Well, that's hard to say. Higbe doesn't pick any spots. When he's got that ball in his hand he doesn't even look to see if it's a Spalding. He just grabs it in his fist and lets go.

"Davis pitched a shutout against the Yanks in Carolina last spring. He's got a ball that breaks—the kind of a pitch that the Yanks aren't used to seeing.

"Anyway, these guys are my pitchers. They won the pennant for me and they're entitled to pitch in the series. We didn't win it with Albosta, or French, or Drake."

The same reasoning prompted Durocher to declare that he would adhere to Cookie Lavagetto at third base and Joe Medwick in left field, no matter whether the Yanks used right or left handed pitchers. During the heat of the pennant race he regularly installed Lew Riggs at third against right-handed pitchers and used Jim Wasdell in the outfield against southpaws.

Peewee Reese also will start all the games at shortstop, he said. "I don't expect to play unless I have to. Of course, if I have to put in a pinch-hitter for Reese during a game, I'll have to go out there. But they didn't win with me at short, they won with the kid."

"He'll be all right for the series, but he hurt his left leg bad at St. Louis—skinned it clear to the bone, and then a boil came out right where it was hurt."

He added that he would use his regulars for a couple of times at bat both today and tomorrow against the Phillies, just to keep them limbered up.

Iowa State Defeats Denver By One Point

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP).—Iowa State and Denver matched first-period touchdowns, but the Iowans scored a 7-6 victory on the strength of Fullback Paul Darling's accurate place-kick in an intersectional football game last night before 14,000 fans.

Shortly after the game opened Denver worked a tricky lateral pass, Bill Phillippe to Bob Riddell, for 39 yards and a touchdown. Riddell's place-kick for the extra point, however, was tipped by an Iowa State lineman and fell short.

Five minutes before the first period ended, Royal Lohry, Iowa State quarterback, sliced through right tackle for a touchdown from three yards out. Then Darling place-kicked the winning point.

Rudolph Hess—Pitcher.

The Bronx Giants had the answer to a promoter's prayer when they played baseball at Newburgh, N. Y. On the mound for them was Rudolph eHss. And his pitching brought a 4-to-2 victory for the visitors.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 27 (AP).—Notre Dame's irst football team under Frank Leahy, new 33-year old Irish coach, opened its season today, playing the University of Arizona. Some 35,000 spectators were in the Notre Dame Stadium at the kickoff.

FIRST QUARTER.

Taking an Arizona punt shortly after the opening kickoff, Notre Dame started a long drive toward the Wildcats' goal line. Juzwik reeled off runs of 11 and 15 yards, with both Bertelli and Evans denting Arizona line consistently. Two five-yard penalties helped move the Irish to the Arizona 18-yard line and Juzwik led another series of short smashes to the Arizona five-yard line, but the visitors tightened to take the ball on downs on their one-yard marker, immediately kicking out of danger.

Taking the ball at the Arizona 48-yard line, Bertelli completed one pass. Then Bob Dove charged through for gains of nine and 13 yards. Evans cracked the Wildcat line for three short gains to the Wildcat 16-yard line. Then Bertelli shot a low, fast pass to Dove, who took the ball on the Arizona 10-yard line and ran for a touchdown. Juzwik's try for the extra point sailed wide of the posts. The period ended after an exchange of punts. Score: Notre Dame 6, Arizona 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

A minute after the period opened, Arizona took a Notre Dame punt on its own 44-yard line. Singer hit center for nine yards, with Smetana, a reserve back, picking up five more through the line. Smetana passed for 11 yards to Morse, another aerial failed and Smetana's long toss was intercepted by Hargrave, who returned 10 yards to Notre Dame's 26-yard line. After driving 18 yards, the Notre Dame attack bogged down and the Irish kicked again.

Arizona sent in a second-string line and Notre Dame started a quick scoring drive. Earley ripped through the line for nine and six yards to the Arizona 22-yard line. Then Warner shot a short pass to Earley, who ran for a touchdown. Warner's kick was no good, leaving the score Notre Dame 12, Arizona 0. Arizona took the kickoff and scored on the third play. Ruman ran to his right and then passed far down the field to Johnson, who took the ball on the Irish 25-yard line and scored untouches. Irish's kick was good. The half ended with the score Notre Dame 12, Arizona 7.

THIRD QUARTER.

Notre Dame scored another touchdown within three minutes. Evans led a 15-yard ground drive to the Notre Dame 47-yard line after the kickoff. Bertelli then completed a pass to Murphy, which carried to the Arizona 42-yard line. Juzwik took another Beltelli pass 33 yards and on the next play Juzwik rounded left end for nine yards and a touchdown. Juzwick's kick for the extra point was good. Notre Dame 19, Arizona 7.

Smetana's plunging and his 23-yard pass to Johnson carried Arizona to the Notre Dame 30-yard line before the Wildcat attack stalled and Notre Dame took over.

St. Louisan Wins in Class B Skeet Event

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 27 (AP).—Virgil Blakemore, Columbia, won the .410-gauge championship and was leading in the 20-gauge event as the first day's firing ceased yesterday at the Missouri skeet tournament.

In professional events Grat Ilseng, Santa Monica, Cal., took the double title firing identical scores of 98 in the .410 and 20-gauge matches. R. L. Chynoweth, Columbia, Mo., was second in the 20-gauge shoot with 96.

Reiser Hurts Arm, Stays Out of Game

BROOKLYN, Sept. 27 (AP). — Pete Reiser, star rookie of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the new National League batting champion, suffered a slight injury to his right arm while throwing before today's game with the Phillies and was out of the starting lineup. Reiser fielded a fly in centerfield during practice and said later that when he threw the ball back to the infield he felt something snap in the region of his right elbow.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 27. —Johnny Niggeling for the Browns and Southpaw Al Smith for the Indians were the opposing pitchers in the next to last game of the Browns' season here this afternoon.

It was Ladies' Day and stockholders' day and some 2500 were in the stands.

Heffner's single, a fumble by Boudreau of Archie's grounder, and Clift's sacrifice put Brownies on second and third with one out in the first. Boudreau stopped Laabs' smash and Heffner was caught between third and home, but slid back safely, hurting his shoulder in doing so. Lucadello ran for him. With the bases full, Cullenbine forced Laabs at second, and Lucadello tallied.

Errors by Boudreau and Mack and a walk combined to give the Browns another run in the third.

WADE TALLIES FOR TIGERS ON 28-YARD GAIN THROUGH TACKLE

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27 (AP).—Ohio State beat Missouri, 12 to 7, this afternoon to score its first victory for its new coach, E. Brown, who jumped to the Western Conference "big time" from high school ranks. In a thrilling battle of passes before 47,671 fans in shirtsleeves, the Buckeyes scored twice before permitting Missouri to count in the last three minutes.

FIRST QUARTER.

Ohio took Missouri's out-of-bounds kickoff on the 35-yard line and plunged and passed to the Missouri 18-yard line, getting three first downs on runs and one on a Fisher-to-Anderson pass, but Kinkade fumbled and Greenwood recovered for Mizzou on the 22-yard line. On the first play, Ice tossed a lateral to Steuber for 35 yards to Ohio's 43-yard line.

Another lateral, Adams to Steuber, reached Ohio's 15-yard line, but the Buckeyes dug in and took the ball on the 12-yard line. Hallabrin punted to Ohio's 48-yard line, from where Ice tossed to Lister for a first down on the Buckeye 30-yard line. Ohio stiffened again, tossed the Tigers for two losses, and took the ball on the 42-yard line. Ohio had the ball on its own 48-yard line as the period ended.

SECOND QUARTER.

Steuber intercepted Sarraighaus' pass on the Missouri 29-yard line on the second play, but two plays later Rosen got it back for Ohio State by grabbing a Mizzou pass on the 38-yard line. In six plays, featured by Graf's 15-yard pass to Bob Shaw, the Buckeyes scored a touchdown, Graf going through the line for two yards and the tally. Schoenbaum missed the place kick for the extra point and Ohio led, 6 to 0.

The teams surged back and forth without result the remainder of the period, but Jack Graf, Ohio fullback, came up with the picture play of the game. On third down, on his own 41-yard line, Graf tossed a pass which Steuber intercepted on the 45-yard line. Graf met him on the 34-yard line, made the tackle, and stole the ball back as they hit the turf, giving Ohio a first down before the half ended. Score Ohio State 6, Missouri 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

Harry (Slippery) Ice, Missouri's 155-pound quarterback, raced 55 yards to Ohio's 44-yard line with the kick-off and an Adams-to-Lister pass put the ball on the Buckeye 21-yard line. Then Fisher intercepted Ice's heave on the 13-yard line and ran to the 33-yard line. Hallabrin punted poorly out of bounds on Missouri's 37-yard line. On the next play, Pitts raced to Ohio's 45-yard line, from where Ice punted to Ohio's four-yard line.

A wave of thrilling pass interceptions followed. Graf punted to midfield and then intercepted Steuber's pass on the 19-yard line, racing to the 36. Graf's pass was intercepted by Abrams in midfield, and Kinkade got the ball back for Ohio, intercepting Steuber's pass on the eight-yard line. Graf punted from the goal line to Missouri's 17-yard line, from where Ice tossed to Steuber on the Missouri 29-yard line for a first down as the period ended. Ohio State 6, Missouri 0.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Ohio scored again shortly after the fourth period opened, driving 80 yards. Charley Anderson, big end from Massillon, contributed about 40 yards on two end-around plays, but Graf plunged the last 10 in two tries to score. Schoenbaum's place kick was blocked, making the score Ohio 12, Missouri 0.

Missouri scored a touchdown two minutes and 15 seconds before the close of the game, Maurice Wade going straight over tackle for 28 yards without an Ohio hand touching him. Steuber kicked from placement for the point. Missouri recovered Kinkade's fumble on the Ohio State 45-yard line with 40 seconds to play, but Graf snatched Steuber's long pass on the 10-yard line and the game ended before the Bucks could run a play.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. — The Cardinals were defeated by the Cubs here this afternoon in their semi-final game of the season.

The score was 6 to 5.

Stan Musial was in left field, Walter Sessi in right and Ervin Dusak in center. George Kurowski was at third and Howard Pollet pitched.

The Redbird rookies routed Paul Erickson in one inning. Dusak walked to open the game and stole second. Sessi walked and was forced by Hopp, but Musial drove in Dusak with a single. Kurowski singled, scoring Hopp and Musial, and Walker Cooper's double drove in Kurowski before Eaves came to Erickson's rescue and retired Crespi and Marion to end the rally.

The Cubs picked up two runs in the second when Dahlgren belted his twenty-third homer of the season, with a man on base, and the Cardinals added their fifth score in the fourth when a pass forced in a tally, but the storm broke in the eighth.

Two errors started the Cubs off on their winning rally. Hack reached second when Sessi dropped his short fly and went to third on Crespi's wild peg. B. Olsen singled, scoring Hack, and after Stringer grounded out, Nicholson's one-bagger drove in B. Olsen with the tying run. Dallessandro singled Nicholson to third and Dahlgren was purposely passed, whereupon Harry Gumbert came to Pollet's rescue. Gilbert batted for McCullough then and flied to Dusak, Nicholson scoring what proved to be the winning tally.

The paid attendance was announced as 3554.

Market Wise, Then Whirlaway In Record Time

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—Lou Tufano's Market Wise nosed out Whirlaway in a great stretch run to win the jockey club Gold Cup at Belmont today in the North American record time of 3:20 4-5 for the two-mile run.

Whirlaway, in second place, had a 10-length lead at the finish over William Woodward's Fenelon, with R. Sterling Clark's Abbe Pierre bringing up the rear in the four-horse field.

Market Wise picked up a winner's purse of $7325 for the grind and returned his backers $10.90 for each $2 win ticket and $2.50 for place. Whirlaway was $2.20 for place. There was no show pool.

Co. at 6677 Delmar boulevard, and were interested in obtaining an exchange of the deeds so that Lesser could obtain a better investment.

Lesser related, according to Shoulders, that Rosenfeld said the deeds Lesser held were of little value compared to the real estate deeds the Schiller firm could obtain for him instead. Lesser asked for time to think the proposition over, and ascertained that the Schiller company actually existed and did business at the University City address.

Lesser, reassured, then got in touch with Rosenfeld, and the two went to Lesser's bank, where Lesser withdrew the nine deeds and the stock from his safe deposit box. He gave them to Rosenfeld, who said he wanted to show them to "the big boss," Mandell, adding that the realty company would buy to sell the stock for Government bonds.

Several days later, Rosenfeld took the Lessers to the real estate office, where he introduced them to Mandell. Rosenfeld told the Lessers the company had made a careful inspection of the nine deeds and found the property involved was the "worst, most valueless" the firm had ever examined. He added that if Lesser held the deeds, his holdings would be wiped out within six months.

He suggested, instead, that Lesser permit the company to trade the deeds for deeds on University City property that had real value and would pay high returns. The following Sunday Mandell and Rosenfeld drove by the Lesser home, picked up the Lessers and Lesser's sister, Miss Ida Lesser, and drove them around the 20 blocks of Maryland, Westmoreland and Pershing and a district originally known as the Maryland Terrace subdivision.

The Lessers were told that the district was being promoted by the Schiller firm, and that it was in this highly priced real estate section that they could obtain property in exchange for the deeds they held. Rosenfeld pointed out several improved lots as the specific pieces of property the Lessers would obtain. The Lessers were convinced. Lesser told Mandell and Rosenfeld to make the switch.

Next day Rosenfeld brought the nine deeds and the Scruggs stock to the Lesser home and Lesser signed them over to the real estate company. In return Lesser was given other deeds, which he now says he failed to examine carefully, but which he deposited in his safe deposit box.

A week or so later, in October, Rosenfeld took Lesser to the First National Bank to get Lesser's signatures on the Scruggs stock, to enable Rosenfeld to sell it.

Lesser waited, but heard no more about the deal. In March, 1941, he became restive and went to the Schiller realty office in University City. It was vacant and University City police informed Lesser that both Mandell and Rosenfeld were serving penitentiary terms for mail fraud.

Lesser and authorities then examined the deeds he had received from the two men and found that they were for 15 lots in the South Maryland Heights subdivision, on Dorsett road west of Lindbergh boulevard in St. Louis County, and nine miles from the Maryland Terrace subdivision.

A total assessed value of $ was placed on the 15 lots by appraisers consulted by Lesser. Frank John B. Ghio, real estate man with offices at 6200 Easton avenue, who originally sold the parcels of property to Mandell and Rosenfeld. Lesser learned the promoters had bought 100 lots in that district in 1938 for $37.50 a lot. "I thought it was kind of funny," Ghio is called, "as no one else wanted those lots."

Mandell was sentenced to two years on the mail fraud charge which involved the sale of four civil service training courses to farm boys and others throughout the country, but was released after a year and 10 months. He enfeld still is in the Federal Reformatory at Terre Haute, Ind.

Mandell has been residing at 1020 Art Hill place since his release. He is scheduled to go on trial Oct. 6 in Circuit Judge William J. Koerner's court on charge of obtaining $8200 under false pretenses in 1938 from Miss Maria Springer, 3514 Sidney street, in a fake real estate deal. The transaction also was made through the Schiller Real Estate Co. Mandell was indicted on this charge in July, 1940, before his release from prison.

Shoulders said the Better Business Bureau had turned over to the Circuit Attorney's office a list of persons who had inquired at the bureau as to the reliability of Mandell's new realty firm.

Pennsylvania Woman, Attacked Wednesday Night, Never Regains Consciousness.

MEDIA, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP). — Mrs. Elizabeth Watson, elder of two sisters beaten near their home Wednesday night, died early today in Chester Hospital while authorities questioned a suspect arrested five hours earlier.

Mrs. Watson, 83 years old, never regained consciousness.

Her sister, Miss Belle Geary, 80, who is still in a serious condition in the hospital, told police a "big young man with dark hair and a pink shirt" attacked them as they returned home from a restaurant. The two women lived alone.

By James M. Gould

If that Billiken mascot of the St. Louis University football team today is wearing a more expansive grin than usual, there is a reason both for the grin and the expansion thereof. And the reason is that last night before a crowd of 7451 at Walsh Stadium the team, opening its 1941 season, got off on the right foot. However, for 57 of the 60 minutes of play with the Missouri School of Mines eleven, that foot was well stepped on before a long pass which with the following run was good for 57 yards, brought the Billikens a 13-to-7 victory.

Until the last three minutes of the action St. Louis U. was decisively out-played by Coach Gale Bullman's game, well-coached and well-trained engineers from Rolla. And the Miners were the best thinkers, too, for the signal-giving mistakes of the Billikens were frequent and hurt.

With three minutes to go the climax play came. The score then was Miners 7, Billikens 6. The Billikens had just lost the ball on a fumble by the usually reliable Dick Weber. But they forced a Miner kick and took over on their own 43-yard line. Weber faded back, sized up the field and shot a 27-yard pass to the veteran end, Tony Wagner, who, making a sweet catch, galloped the remaining 30 yards for the winning touchdown. Pfuhl converted the try for extra point.

Miners Off in Lead.

There was a thrill in both the earlier scores. The Miners went into the lead in the opening quarter. With six minutes of play remaining in the period the Miner tackle, Gilbert Carafiol, formerly of Soldan, intercepted a pass on his own 23-yard line. Fullop, Bullman's ace ball-carrier, crashed through for eight yards and Miller was stopped. Followed a touchdown play made possible by the new rules. Cook handed the ball forward to Miller just behind the line of scrimmage and Miller lateralled it to Fullop, who ran 69 yards through the entire St. Louis team. Krueger place-kicked the extra point.

This seven-point margin was maintained through the first quarter, in the course of which the Miners gained 82 yards to 41 for the Billikens.

A Miner kick, blocked by Zimmer and recovered by Kelly early in the second period, gave the Billikens a scoring chance and they took advantage of it. From the 15-yard mark, point of recovery, Monolo and Brown made it a first down on the Miners' seven-yard stripe. Glover plunged two yards and then Brown passed to Sortal, a sophomore end, for the touchdown. Glover failed to convert. It is noteworthy that when this score was made the Billikens had three sophomores—Brown, Glover and Monolo— in the backfield, with Radosevich the only veteran.

In the third quarter the Miners outgained the Billikens on the ground, 67 yards to 19, but lack of a good passer hampered their efforts. They did work the ball to the St. Louis seven-yard line, but the Billiken defense braced, smeared two plays of sizeable losses, took over and punted out of peril.

Pass Hits Pay Dirt.

A Weber kick that stopped dead on the Miners' one-yard line was a big help to St. Louis in the final quarter. They had to kick on first down. But the Billikens couldn't gain and another Miner kick was fumbled by Weber and recovered by Hoby on the Miners' 37-yard mark. It looked as though this was the last chance for the Billikens, but a third kick was run back by Weber to his own 43-yard line, from which point he passed to Wagner for the winning points.

As always, the Miners put on a fine show, with Carafiol the outstanding player on defense and Captain Kromka not far behind him in efficiency. Fullop was the best back on the field on last night's play. For the Billikens, Pfuhl was most useful, but the most pleasing point was the work of the sophomores, 11 of whom saw action. They were on their toes at all times, worked smoothly, much more smoothly than the veterans, and gave every indication of making good on the promise they showed last year as freshmen.

The choice of St. Louis plays left much to be desired and, on one occasion, rose to heights of football idiocy as, in the final minutes of the third period, far in their own territory on fourth down, a running play was called. It would have been a fine spot for a sharpshooter on the Billiken bench with a bead on the quarterback.

The crowd was the largest for an opening game in several years and the weather was ideal for football—clear and cool.

There seemed to be a definite weakness in the tackle-play of the Billikens for most of the game, and that department probably will get a lot of attention next week as St. Louis prepares for the Creighton game at Omaha.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Another Great Russian Victory.

THE Russians have been claiming great victories on the Dniester and the Don. . . . But they are nothing to that Russian success gained on the Kaw. . . . Yes, sir, right up there at Kansas City. . . . A communique received recently from our Russian ally, Jake Pfefer, hero of many wrestling wars, claims the enemy is completely routed.

To get the background of the Russian "forces," you will recall that he originally came to this country with the Pavlowa troupe of dancers. . . . He remained to go into the wrestling business, which soon led him into war with almost anybody. . . . With true Russian modesty, Jake then, as now, put the enemy to rout—he says.

But in the Kansas City battle, it was Jake who first sowed the seeds of trouble. . . . He gave interviews of a highly disparaging nature concerning the inability of the wrestling fraternity in general to remain upright. . . . He contended that most of the wrestling personnel individually would have no trouble hiding behind a corkscrew.

At Any Rate He Told the Truth.

AS for himself, he admitted that his 18-karat wrestlers were phony from their whiskers to their flying mares. . . . He naively admitted that, while all wrestling shows were phony, he was the only promoter who didn't pretend they weren't.

That was too much for the magazines. . . . They took Jake to their bosoms and extracted various and sundry yarns. . . . One of them appeared in Colliers, and it so greatly offended one Wladek Zbyszko, brother of the mighty Stanislaus Cyganiewiscz (the original Zbyszko) that he sued the Crowell Publishing Co. because they used a picture of himself in connection with it.

Although no name appeared under the picture, and Wladek was not named in the story, he sued the Crowell Publishing Co. for $2,000,000 damages to his reputation!

After one hour and 15 minutes of deliberation, the jury negatived Zbyszko's demand. . . . And all because the Russian nemesis was too smart for him, says Pfefer's communique.

JAKE PFEFER.

. . . Pfefer, of course, was nemesis.

The communique should be preserved for future mat generations to read. . . . It may perhaps lead them into seeing the error of their ways. . . . And the moral Jake seems to impress is this: "Be a phony if you want to, but don't try to sell yourself for 18-karat." . . . The letter:

Black Eye for This Liable Suit.

Dear Mr. Wray:

"HERE is a little news which is an old story in the great wrestling game. When you read the enclosed papers, which just happened the last few days, you see the same old story with liable suits and as usual it ended up with another black eye for the wrestling game.

"Collier's magazine won the case (the Zbyszko suit) a hundred per cent. As you can see by the papers I was not there at the trial but my shadow was all over the courtroom and again the great people of the wrestling game blame me for everything and as usual all these great people are the innocent babies—pure little angels????

"I have just returned recently from a long trip over 12,000 miles around the country from coast to coast to make a personal inspection of what is going on in the sport which is called wrestling. To tell you the truth, Mr. Wray, this was my first trip in nearly 18 years since I have been promoting in New York and I decided to close for the summer and I went around to see my friends and mostly my enemies in the game.

"But it is unbelievable what has become of this great game. If I had not seen it with my own eyes I couldn't have believed it that I defeated so badly all these former czars and that I won by a perfest k. o. against all my enemies.

"When I left New York on this great tour I was expecting that some of the former czars would lynch me or hang me on a tree for what I did with them and with their great sport. But instead of that I received the most wonderful receptions from everyone of them and they have sure tried their best to give me a good time.

"So it seems that the good lesson which I gave them convinced them that with strong-arm methods and other abuses will not do them any good, so they changed and were nice to me.

"If you really knew what has become of a few of the biggest dictators in the game there could be a book written about it. . . . It seems now again they started off very bad with this trial in Kansas City as a start for the season. It sure was already a big flop."

(Signed) JAKE.

Gave Him the Works, Pfefer Hands It Back.

SO, says the Russian communique, the enemy are routed on all fronts. . . . But they'll be back again renewing the fight on this mite of a man who has done more to ridicule the championship pretensions of professional wrestling than all its enemies combined.

We can't help thinking that half a dozen major mat promoters in this country wish that Pfefer had a neck long enough for each and everyone of them combined to get a double hand-hold on it. . . . Would they wring it!

But Jake himself says they started it. . . . He was in partnership once and they give him the works. . . . It cost him $100,000, he has claimed. . . . And he since has told this writer that he'd even the score if it cost him another hundred grand. . . . He's cost the enemy more than that, to judge by shrinking receipts.

Tie for First Place

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27 (AP).—Jack Rice and Richard Clark of the Butler University tied for first place in 17 minutes, 25 seconds, over a three and a quarter mile course yesterday as Butler beat Eastern Illinois State Teachers' College, 17 to 28, in the season's first cross-country meet here.

Golf Swing Breaks Leg.

Stanton Is Beaumont Athletic Director

With R. C. Lewis, athletic director of Beaumont High School now in the army, Tom Stanton, former St. Louis University football, baseball and basketball star, has been named acting director. Lewis, a major in the Air Corps, is stationed at Washington, D. C.

Duquesne Is Winner.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP). — Duquesne University's Dukes gave their departing coach, Aldo (Buff) Donelli, a fitting farewell party last night, romping to a 33-to-0 triumph over Niagara University for the largest score they have amassed in any game since he became boss, back in 1939.

Montreal Routs Columbus, 12-6

MONTREAL, Sept. 27 (AP).—Brooklyn fans who are worrying about how the strain of a tough pennant fight is going to affect the Dodgers' chances in the world series against the well-rested Yankees may find some comfort today from the doings of the Montreal Royals, Brooklyn "farmhands," in the "little world series."

The Royals battled until the final day of the regular International League season to nip second place in the standings, and then fought through two seven-game series against Buffalo and the pennant-wininng Bears to win the Governor's Cup playoffs.

However, last night they went to work on the Columbus Redbirds, American Association playoff champions, to win the opening game of the minor league classic, 12-6, as though they were only having batting practice.

Letting go with both barrels, the Royals brought down the Birds with a 14-hit bombardment on a trio of pitchers, scoring all 12 runs in the first three innings. Three home runs, two with the bases loaded, powered the Royals' drive, as they scored five times in the first, added three in the second and wound up with four more in the third.

Barron 8 Under Par With 64

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 27 (AP).—Firing an amazing eight-under-par 64, the lowest score ever made in Rhode Island competition, Herman Barron, 31-year-old White Plains (N. Y.) pro, took over the lead in the $5000 Providence Open golf tournament today with a 36-hole total of 135.

Yankees Split Series Melon

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP). —The New York Yankees split up their World Series swag today at a meeting attended by Manager Joe McCarthy and all the 25 eligible players.

They voted full shares for themselves and the three coaches, Arthur Fletcher, Earle Combs and John Schulte, as well as for Paul Schreiber, batting practice pitcher, and for Trainer Earl Painter.

In addition they gave three-quarters of a share to Traveling Secretary Mark Roth, and the same amount to Rex Weyant, his assistant.

The 25 players who were eligible for full shares and to play in the World Series were Ernest Bonham, Stanley Bordagaray, Norman Branch, Marvin Breuer, Spurgeon Chandler, Frank Crosetti, William Dickey, Joseph DiMaggio, Atley Donald, Vernon Gomez, Joseph Gordon, Tom Henrich, Charles Keller, John Murphy, Steve Peek, Gerald Priddy, Philip Rizzuto, Robert Rolfe, Warren Rosar, Charles Ruffing, Marius Russo, George Selkirk, Kenneth Silvestri, Charles Stanceu and John Sturm.

The Brooklyn Dodgers also held a meeting today to decide the division of the series shares, but because of the complex questions involved in numerous changes of their roster during the season, the job was not completed.

They will hold another meeting tomorrow.

McKinley Wins Season Opener

McKinley High School opened the title campaign in the City High School football race at Public Schools Stadium last night with a 19-6 victory over Soldan. J. Simpson Howard was the McKinley star, scoring all three of his team's touchdowns. Jack Magner counted Soldan's lone touchdown.

Two of Howard's scores came as a result of long runs, one after a 45-yard dash and the other after a 90-yard run following a pass interception.

Dukes Duford, his doctors a bit wary of the cool night air, decided not to attend the game. But he expects to take full charge of the workouts next week.

The game, despite the numerous and free substitutions, was completed in two hours and 14 minutes and the officials handled the game most efficiently, insisting on the 25-second limit for changes in lineup.

Maryville Surprises Raiders

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Sept. 27.—The Maryville Bearcats scored a surprise 13-to-0 victory here last night over their heavier opponents, the Blue Raiders, a service team of the Air Corps at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Playing in a high wind, the Teachers scored in the first and third quarters, in the meantime keeping the Army from threatening at any time. A St. Louis boy, Bill Bennett, was instrumental in Maryville's victory, setting up Maryville's touchdown in the first period by taking a 31-yard pass. The second score came shortly after the third quarter started.

The Bearcats, who had been playing straight football, caught the Blue Raiders unawares with a forward passing attack midway of the first quarter. Peters, a freshman playing safety, returned Cones' punt 15 yards to the Raiders' 35-yard line. Capt. Ivey Schottel tossed a long pass to the corner of the field, Bill Bennett stumbling as he caught the pass on the four-yard line. On the second play, Bennett tossed a short pass to the right side of the line to Schottel, who scored. Bob Gregory kicked wide on the attempted placement.

With the wind at their back in the second period, the Blue Raiders played mostly in Maryville territory, but were unable to threaten. They opened up a passing attack, but gained only 1 yards. Robert Cone, the Wisconsin triple-threater, was the Army's main offensive threat with his quick dashes through the line and his forward passes.

DEATH VERDICT AGAINST YOUTH WHO KILLED FOUR

'Knifey' Sawicki Continues Boasting After Conviction—Grins at Winning Pack of Cigarettes.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP).—Bernard (Knifey) Sawicki got a death verdict and a package of cigarettes and, consistent with the casual way in which he boasted of killing four persons, was more interested in the smokes than life and death.

"You lose," the 19-year-old orphan grinned at a bailiff as a jury convicted him last night of murdering a park policeman. "You said I wouldn't get the chair. You owe me. Gimme a pack of cigarettes."

As he was led from the courtroom he leered at the chief prosecutor, Richard Devine, and muttered: "There's a guy I'd like to get a pot shot at."

"I ain't sore at nobody," he laughed later as he walked about his cell. "I said I'd roast, didn't I?"

He continued joking as he ate fried potatoes, perch, bread and candy bars.

The jury of seven women and five men took an hour and 10 minutes to convict him of murdering Charles Speaker. Four ballots were taken before agreement on the extreme penalty.

Insanity was the defense plea of Morton Anderson, public defender, who told how the "neglected, motherless boy" had been found on the doorstep of the Sawicki home in Hart, Mich., when he was three days old.

Two alienists testified he was a "moral imbecile," but able to determine right from wrong.

His other victims, all killed within 72 hours in June, with Sawicki's comments in his confession to Police Captain Hugh McCarthy, were:

Henry Allain, 72, farmer who had Sawicki sent to the Illinois Training School for Boys, "put the finger on me, the stinking squealer. I hate squealers."

John J. Miller, 19, who with a woman companion was held up in a park. "I tell this guy it's a stickup. He gets wise and starts scrapping and the dame scratches me. So I shoot the guy."

Charles Kwasinski, 17, a fellow inmate of the training school. "The squealing sneak, I wanted him to hold up a hotel with me and he got yellow. So I shoot him twice."

When he was seized by police, Sawicki was carrying the death weapon in a chamois bag. Under his arm was a box of chocolates for his foster mother.

DR. WILLIAM M. MALISOFF

SCIENTIST DESCRIBES HIS STUDY OF OLD AGE

Dr. W. M. Malisoff Believes Research Can Extend Life Span to 185 Years.

Dr. William M. Malisoff of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute said here last night that lack of funds has practically stopped research which he believes would extend the human life span to about 185 years, and other experiments in which gallstones may be disintegrated by sound waves.

Speaking before the first winter season meeting of the St. Louis Dinner Club at the Hotel Chase, the noted scientist and author of numerous scientific tracts disclosed he had temporarily abandoned his laboratory for preliminary work in organizing a campaign to establish an institute to study old age.

"The more we learn about the symptoms or conditions of old age," he asserted, "the more we will know about the multitude of other related problems, the outstanding of which is cancer."

Dr. Malisoff, who is regarded as a leading authority on sex hormones, said experiments with rabbits had led him to believe that the accumulation and deposition of cholesterol on or in various organs of the body are a major condition of old age. Cholesterol, he explained, is a form of bile wax present in the bodies of all persons.

Animal Experiments.

So far, with rabbits and test tubes only, he has been able to break up or disperse cholesterol deposits by chemical means, and, in other instances, by sound at a frequency of 7900 or two octaves above the highest C on a piano.

This probably indicates, he said, that human beings could be relieved of the ageing cholesterol and thus live longer, and such forms of cholesterol deposits as gallstones and cataracts could be dispersed bloodlessly.

In one experiment, Dr. Malisoff related, an animal gallstone was dispersed after being exposed to only 30 seconds of high frequency sound waves. In other experiments, he said, sodium thiocyanate had proved effective in dissolving cholesterol deposits which have the effect of rendering muscles less elastic and hardening arteries—symptoms or conditions of old age.

In using the terms symptoms or conditions of old age, Dr. Malisoff stressed that neither he nor other researchers are attempting to find the "cause" of old age, a phenomenon beyond scientists' comprehension now and for some time to come.

Determining Age.

As for cholesterol, he said, experiments have gone along so far that the age of a person can be determined within a year by the amount of the bile wax deposited in the body. The only qualification is, he added, that the person in question must be at least 15 years old, since below that age cholesterol action is insufficient for accurate graphing.

In asserting that rabbit and test tube experiments concerning the dissolution of cholesterol have been quite successful, Dr. Malisoff added: "If the same thing is possible in human beings, we could prolong life to about 185 years—and science is already getting over the impossibility jitters in almost every channel of research."

CLIPPER MAKES FIRST NIGHT TAKEOFF FROM NEW YORK

Departure Necessitated by Disruption of Schedules by Storms in Last Two Weeks.

With 10 passengers for Lisbon and 32 for Bermuda aboard, the 42½-ton flying boat rose from the Long Island Sound into a 15-mile northwest wind and headed south on the first leg of its 3890-mile flight.

The takeoff was guided by a series of colored lights atop buoys which stretched down the sound at 200-foot intervals.

Pan American said it was the 449th scheduled ocean crossing since the service began in 1939, explaining that the night departure was necessary to catch up on schedules disrupted in the last two weeks by storms over the ocean. Night takeoffs will not be regularly scheduled.

SURVEY INDICATES SHORTER WORK-WEEK THAN IN 1929

Average for Wage Earner in July in 25 Cities Was 41 Hours; 12 Years Ago, 48.4.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP).—The National Industrial Conference Board estimated today that, despite the demands for defense materials, the average wage earner in 25 American manufacturing industries worked only 41 hours a week in July as compared with 48.4 hours a week in July of 1929, a boom year.

The survey showed that in none of the 25 was the average work week of July this year as long as the average in the 1929 month.

In the iron and steel industry, wage earners averaged 37.9 hours a week in July, this year, compared with 54.8 in July, 1929, the report said.

BIG STEEL PLANT IN SOUTH CLOSED WHEN C I O PICKETS IT

Company Source Says Union Began Card Inspection Drive.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 27 (AP).—One of the South's largest steel plants, the Ensley works of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., was shut down today after the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (CIO) established a picket line at the gates.

A company source said the plant was closed after the SWOC began a card inspection drive to keep non-union men from work. There was no announcement of union-company differences.

Six blast furnaces, nine open hearth furnaces, three Bessemer converters, a rail mill and two shell-forging plants were affected by the work stoppage, which involved 3000 men.

ILLITERATE BUT TOPS CLASS

Soldier Given Oral Lessons Is Graduated as Medical Technician.

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP).—Private Claud C. Aston, 24 years old, an Oklahoma cowboy who acknowledged he couldn't read or write after he appeared to be lagging behind his mates, was graduated at the head of his class today as a medical technician. His final grade of 90 excelled the marks of several college graduates. Aston was given oral lessons and then an oral exam.

"I was so impressed with his natural intelligence and his desire to learn that I just kept him," said Col. W. W. McCaw, commandant.

Convincing Evidence.

IOLA, Kan., Sept. 27.—County Attorney Mitchell Bushey offered the jury an opportunity to sample confiscated liquor to test its intoxicating qualities. One of the men in the box accepted. The defendant was convicted. Kansas is a dry State.

Works for Honor of It.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua. — Teofilo Borunda believes being Mayor or Councilman of Juarez is sufficient compensation in itself. "The posts carry such honor with them that no actual pay should be wanted," he said. "Our budget is already overworked." He is Mayor of Juarez.

Tops Up.

CHICAGO.—The foam on the glass of beer Charles Hawes, 63 years old, ordered was blamed for giving him a pain in the neck. Hawes followed his usual custom of pouring salt in his beer and then took a big draw at the glass—and choked.

After physicians extricated the top of the salt shaker, Hawes explained the accident: "I didn't notice the top because of the foam."

$4500 Damage in Apartment Fire.

Fire in a four-family apartment at 5533 Cote Brilliante avenue caused damage estimated at $4500 last night. Fire Chief Joseph Morgan said the blaze apparently started in a rubbish pile in the basement. A steam boiler exploded.

DIESEL ENGINE FIRM SEEKS 100 SKILLED MACHINISTS

Calls on State Bureau and OPM to Get Workers; Company Behind on $15,000,000 Job.

The Busch-Sulzer Diesel Engine Co., 3300 South Second street, which is about two months behind on its $15,000,000 contracts with the Navy Department, has appealed to the Missouri State Employment Service and the Office of Production Management for 100 additional skilled machinists to speed up production.

The firm, which is supplying Diesel engines for mine sweepers and manufacturing parts for a new type anti-aircraft gun for warships, has been requested by the Navy to hasten work so production may be returned to the original schedule and a delay in outfitting ships prevented.

Edward B. Pollister, company president, said 800 men were employed at the plant on two 10-hour shifts, six days a week. He said skilled machinists were needed because of the precision work required. The production delay resulted from a jurisdictional dispute between AFL carpenters and machinists over installation of machinery in the firm's new ordnance plant.

SIX BROTHERS IN THE ARMY

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP).—Sergt. Clyde Rominger of Rominger, N. C., has five brothers already in military service and three others about to join.

"I find it hard to keep track of my brothers," said Rominger, assistant mess Sergeant at Morrison Field, "but as far as I know two of them are at Fort Bragg, one at the air base at Augusta, Ga., one at Fort Meade, Md., and one out at Denver.

"Maybe there are seven of us now, because the last I heard was that one had a 1-A draft classification. That was a month or so ago. The other two will be in soon."

They are the sons of Manuel Rominger.

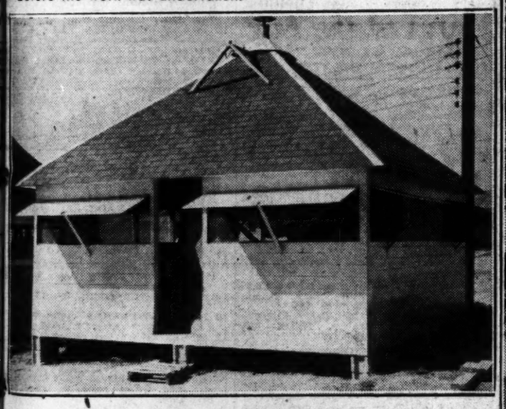
BEFORE---ARMY TENT

The first experiment by the army in converting present type tent frames into permanent huts is under way this week at Fort Jackson. Above is one of the tents of the 128th Field Artillery as it appeared before the work was undertaken.



AFTER---PERMANENT HUT

When members of the 128th Field Artillery from Missouri return from maneuvers they will find permanent huts like the one shown above in their area at Fort Jackson, S. C. Two sides of the hut have windows of plastic. The roof is of lap shingle. The huts are being converted at a cost of $116 each. If they prove satisfactory, the work will be extended to other camps.

An Economical Pot Roast for Sunday Dinner

By Meta Given

NOBODY needs to feel abused when served pot roast of beef with macedoine of vegetables for Sunday dinner. Reason? This dish can be just as tasty and attractive as other more expensive cuts of beef that make a bigger hole in the food budget. All that a pot roast requires is a good browning and long cooking with moist heat. Avoid over cooking the vegetables and make the dish attractive with chopped parsley. We had a suspicion that a guest might be invited to Sunday dinner and so we are giving you a recipe which will serve five or six. We know the guest will be appreciative.

Pot Roast of Beef With Macedoine of Vegetables.

Two and one-half pounds beef chuck or rump roast, three tablespoons bacon drippings, two teaspoons salt, four medium potatoes (one pound), one large carrot, three branches celery, one medium onion, four small turnips, one-half teaspoon salt, one sprig parsley, chopped.

Wipe pot roast with a damp cloth. Heat drippings in a heavy skillet and brown meat well on all sides. Add two teaspoons salt and one-fourth cup water, cover tightly and simmer for about one and one-half hours, or until almost tender. Meanwhile clean and finely chop vegetables; add potatoes, carrot and celery to skillet, cover and continue cooking. Cook, uncovered, chopped onion and turnip in one and one-half cups boiling water to which one-half teaspoon salt has been added for about 15 minutes or until tender. When done, add with part or all of cooking liquid to pot roast and vegetables already in skillet, stir to blend and reheat to boiling. Remove meat and vegetables to a hot platter, sprinkle with parsley and thicken juice remaining in skillet with a flour-water paste if a thicker gravy is desired. Five to six servings.

MENUS FOR SUNDAY.

Breakfast.

Honeydew melon, one small honeydew melon; prepared cereal with top milk, two and one-half cups prepared cereal, top milk; orange biscuit with butter, one-fourth cup butter, one-half cup orange juice, one-half cup sugar, two teaspoons grated orange rind, two cups flour, salt, one tablespoon baking powder, three tablespoons shortening, three-fourths cup milk, sugar; cocoa (for all), three tablespoons cocoa, sugar, one and one-half cups evaporated milk, one and one-half cups water.

Dinner.

Pot roast of beef with macedoine of vegetables, recipe already given; peach and cream cheese salad on lettuce, four peaches, cream cheese, walnuts, lettuce leaves; hard rolls with butter, one-half dozen hard rolls, butter; vanilla ice cream with grape sauce, one pint vanilla ice cream, one cup grape juice, sugar, cornstarch; coffee (for adults only); four tablespoons coffee; milk (for children), two cups milk.

Supper.

Egg salad sandwiches, four slices bacon, three hard-cooked eggs, two tablespoons chopped pickles, three and one-half tablespoons mayonnaise, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon prepared mustard, eight slices bread; baked apples, four tart cooking apples, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup water, one small lemon; yellow cake with chocolate cream cheese frosting, left from Saturday dinner; tea (for adults only), two teaspoons tea; milk (for children), two cups milk.

Cost for day: About $2.10.

'I Have Something for You' By Margaret G. Nichols

CHAPTER 23.

"AND you expect me to live on your income of $90 a month and some pittance from your army pay? Aren't you forgetting who I am? How dare you suggest . . ."

"I know who you are, Anita. You've never let me forget you're a Curtis. But you are also my wife," said Tony.

"I was. But I won't be. I'm going to Reno for a divorce. I wouldn't live with you another day!"

"That's true. You won't be living with me. I'm in the army. But Reno costs money. So does Florida. Anita, the good old days are over. Open your eyes. Read. Listen to the radio. Get out and talk with people. You can't live in an ivory tower any more. It isn't what you get but what you give. There's going to be less getting and more giving. Ask Tracy. Every year more and more of her money is taken from her. There's a levelling process going on. Snobbishness is as passe as prohibition." He looked at Mike. "Am I right, Mike?"

"You're entirely right."

Mike chuckled. "Be careful. I'm a writer these days. I have a new suit. I'm coming up in the world."

Tracy said, "Mike is right. You're holding onto a bubble, Anita."

"It's just fine talk," Anita said. Her voice was shrill. "It's only talk. How dare you humiliate me like this, Tony? How dare you lie to me?"

"I didn't lie to you. I said I had a job."

"I opened my charge accounts and bought things."

"You'll have to send them back."

"I'll do nothing of the kind. I'll go. If Tracy doesn't want me."

"Stop talking like an idiot," Tracy said sharply. "You're more welcome than ever."

"Thank you, Tracy." She looked at Tony again, her dark eyes blazing. "What you do in the future is no concern of mine. You—in that ridiculous uniform! You look like a zoo keeper! I don't love you and you can't love me or you wouldn't think of humiliating me like this! I'm through! I don't have to go to work as you suggest. I don't have to degrade myself to that extent. I'm sure there are other men who'd want to marry me. Several others did want me."

"It's a darned shame they didn't," Mike said.

Tracy said, "You don't mean that, Anita."

Tony said, "I knew you'd be shocked and disappointed but thought if I explained how I felt, that I was happy."

"You have explained how you feel! You've done admirably. You've talked yourself out of a wife. I'm sorry that I can't share in the admiration of these—these other people. Go back to your camp and your job—if you can call it that. I'm going . . ."

"Not to your parents," Tony said. "It's because I don't want to be a middle-aged object of charity that I've done this. People are sorry for your parents, Anita. They overstayed their welcome long ago."

"My mother and father are popular people. They're invited everywhere."

Tony shook his head. "This doesn't get us anywhere. Very well. I'll go back to camp."

Tracy said, "Kit, please find Cecil and tell him to take Tony to the station." To Anita she said, "Don't be an utter fool. Do you realize what this means? You're sending Tony away from you. You certainly are a failure as a wife."

"It's no use," Tony said. "No use, Tracy. You're wasting time and words. I'm sorry our marital grievances had to be aired like this. Not in very good taste certainly. Not becoming a Merryman and a Curtis. Good-by. I'll go with Kit to the garage."

Tracy said, "You'll let me hear from you, Tony."

"Of course. Thanks a lot."

Mike said, "If I can be of any help, let me know. If you want anything. . . ."

"Sure. Thanks."

HEAD up, eyes defiant, Anita hurried toward the house. Tony overtook Kit as she was walking to the garage. They did not say anything. Kit knew that he was hurt and that it would be stupid to offer platitudes.

Cecil sprang to attention and beamed.

"You in the army now, Mistah Tony. . . ."

Tony nodded. "Yes, Cecil. I want to go to the station. I—I have to get back to camp." He turned to Kit and held out his hand. "I still think I'm right. I've been feeling great. I've been feeling that I was of some use to myself and to my country. I've been feeling as I did at school when winning a game was the most important and most exciting thing in the world. I don't even mind getting up early. Your milkman has to get up even earlier." His face was long in its soberness, a lean, tanned, boyish face. "What she said about the uniform—got me. Well, good-by, Kit."

"I think you're right, too. I know you are. Maybe she'll. . . ."

"Yes, maybe. Don't think too badly of her. She was raised to be what she is. But the rules in the game of living have changed radically since then. I'm ready, Cecil."

Cecil beamed again. "Yassah, Mistah Tony!"

Kit went back to Tracy and Mike.

Mike's eyes were bright with anger. "Why don't you put her out, Tracy? It would teach her some sense. She'd have to get a job. She'd learn more then in one week than in all her other years put together. She'd go crawling back to Tony."

"I'd like to but I can't. She'd starve."

"That kind never starves. They always find somebody to take care of them. The cussed thing is Tony and Anita love each other."

"You're staying for dinner, aren't you, Mike?"

"No, thanks. Some other time. I've got to get back to town. Come to think of it, I could have driven Tony back to town, but what with all the shouting going on, it didn't occur to me."

Tracy said, "Then you can take Mac and the baby back. Kit, find Mac and tell her that Mike will take her and the baby back. Tell her to spend the night with her daughter if she wants to. But I want to see Diane before she goes. With all the chewing she'd done today on that yellow duck and other things she surely must have another tooth."

Anita did not come down to dinner that evening and Tracy and Kit dined together at the long, beautiful mahogany table. They talked little. Kit was certain they were thinking the same thoughts—thinking that Kirk's tall, loose-jointed figure had been conspicuously absent for the past few days.

The big house knew quiet nights as well as quiet days now. Tonight the lights burned for three people. For Kit, her chestnut head bent over a letter to Aunt Chris. For Tracy, knitting in her room. For Anita sitting up in bed, her hand to her chin, her tear-washed eyes no longer tearful but very bright with a new idea.

Soon Kit finished the letter, which was in response to the one Aunt Chris had written after Kit had explained her father's case. Aunt Chris had written, "I'm immensely relieved, dear, that the thing which has been bothering you won't bother you again, and I think you are wise to pursue it no further. Mike Saunders has been a good friend. New friends, you are learning, are sometimes our best friends."

Kit walked to the window and looked out. Moonlight had washed the countryside with pale silver. The house was so quiet. . . . Suddenly feeling the urge to "do something" she went to the closet for the short blue wool coat and quietly left her room. As she passed the door to Anita's room she thought, "Isn't she sorry? Isn't she telling herself that Tony is right? And that they'll have a new and better beginning? There isn't enough love in the world that you can turn your back on it."

Outside she took the winding lane and walked slowly. After a while she knew it was no apparition she saw—a figure approaching in the moonlight. Nor could she mistake that tall, rangy man in white trousers and a coat of darker material. The long, rangy figure was too familiar . . . Kirk. For a second she thought of turning and walking back to the house quickly but somehow she kept on walking, her heart stirring excitedly.

In the center of the lane they met.

"Kit," he said. He stopped, dropped his cigarette, stepped on it and then smiled. "Do you—do you do this often?"

"No. Do you?"

"Well, yes. Bill and Sara Lanahan are back and there's a mob at their place. Shall we . . ."

She nodded and they walked on together.

"It's a swell night," Kirk said. "There won't be many more nights like this when you can get out and walk. You haven't been riding in the morning."

"You haven't been over to see us lately." She had not meant to say "us." She had meant to say "Tracy."

He smiled down at her. "Then you missed me?"

"I've been wanting to apologize for acting so badly the last time."

"You could never act badly, Kit. And if you expect me to apologize for kissing you, I won't."

She thought, "If I stop and look up at him, he'll know. My face will give me away. It will be so hard not to touch him. Can he see that I'm shaking?" She said, "You're going away soon and I'd like to explain myself. It goes back a long time . . ."

Doctor Tells Of Electron Microscope

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

IT WAS only about 300 years ago that a Dutch diamond cutter named Janssen made a little convex glass that showed him astonishing anatomical details of fleas, plant fibers, insects and mouth scrapings. That simple microscope was slowly improved.

About 1820 construction of modern microscopes began. It was only 75 years ago Edward Bausch completed the first microscope made in the Western Hemisphere. Now there are over 50,000 microscopes in use in this country. These serviceable tools can show images 2000 times larger than life. The famous "naked" human eye can see no object that is less than 1-125 of an inch long.

That is, the human eye can distinguish two points when they are .008 inches apart and no more. Now comes the super-microscope that can resolve two points 1-10,000,000 of an inch apart.

TO PUT IT another way, the ordinary microscope magnifies 2000 times, the super-microscope 10,000 to 30,000 times. Photographic enlargements can be made 100,000 to 200,000 times life size.

One of the smallest objects that can be seen under the ordinary microscope is the tubercle bacillus. A group of them looks like little fine bits of hair clippings. I have just seen a photograph of a tubercle bacillus made by the super-microscope that is as big as my thumb.

The super-microscope is known as the electron microscope. The source of light is electrons from a hot tungsten wire coated with salts, from which electrons emerge into a vacuum. They bombard and pass through—something like X-rays—the object to be examined. The possibilities of even larger magnifications can be prophesied from what we now know of the electron microscope.

WHAT CAN BE expected in medical science from this new microscope? Several years ago an amateur London microscopist announced the possibility of finding the cause of cancer with a microscope devised by him which enlarged many magnifications more than the ordinary microscope. But this instrument was a poor thing compared to the electron microscope. His idea, however, was sound. We can expect to see many details of the cell, not only of the cancer cell, but of normal cells by sufficient magnification.

Then the field of the viruses—those causes of diseases such as smallpox, chicken pox and infantile paralysis—which are now called ultra-microscopic—may be opened up and these objects hitherto elusive to any magnification of vision we possess may be revealed.

To see the protein molecule, which must be large as molecules go, but still smaller than any germ, is another possibility.

Questions and Answers.

W. R.: "1. What are the advantages of bicycling? 2. Is it good for thin people? 3. Does it make muscles on the legs? 4. What does it do to bow legs?"

Answer: Bicycling is a very healthy form of exercise. It certainly strengthens the muscles of the leg, also the abdomen and back. It has no effect on bow legs, either pro or con.

SATURDAY PATCHWORK

Port Alleghany: We've been arguing about CARAMEL. Please pronounce it.—J. B. L.

Answer: The first "a" is flat as in arrogant. This is a three-syllable word. Say KAR-uh-mell.

Detroit: On Maj. Bowes' program the word AMATEUR is pronounced with a decided accent on the first syllable. Please comment.—Mrs. S.

Answer: Dictionary consensus shows:

First choice: am-uh-TER.
Second choice: AM-uh-tyoor.
Third choice: AM-uh-cher.
Fourth choice: AM-uh-ter.

Waterford: Doesn't the expression "back and forth" place the cart before the horse?—P. A.

Answer: Literally, yes, for one cannot come back without first going forth. But the expression is well established by long usage, and it may be considered as a proper idiom.

Detroit: We hear FILET pronounced in various ways. Please clarify.—F. J. S.

Answer: Filet (a piece of meat or fish without bone) is French. Pronounce it thus: fee-LAY. The English form is FILLET, pronounced: FILL-et.

Reno: Soon I shall be a DIVORCEE. How should the word be pronounced?—M.

Answer: Not "duh-VORE-see." Place the accent on the third syllable. First choice: dee-vor-SAY. Second choice: dee-vore-SEE.

Loony Logic.

Neat trick. C. M., of Portland, finds this gem in a recent issue of a magazine: "Along this street Stalin's 1938 car often drives him to the Kremlin!" (Send in your Looney Logics. It's all in fun.)

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

ARE soldiers in the Air Corps allowed to correspond with friends? I had been writing to a certain soldier before he was transferred to California. After he was transferred, I received only one letter. I answered this and haven't heard from him since. Is it that he is not allowed to write, the letter was censored and destroyed, or has he forgotten me?

LONSEOME MISSOURIAN.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Not having an all seeing eye I am afraid I can't tell you what happened or why the boy does not write. He is allowed to write, of course, and the destroyed by the censor idea is quite unlikely. He probably is very busy or he may not like letter-writing. Why not be a big, brave girl and write and ask him why the neglect and the suspense? Then if you receive no answer, you will know he has found another girl friend and lost interest.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WOULD YOU PLEASE publish this letter on or before Sept. 29, for you see, after that, it will do little good. I am attending Roosevelt High School in the commercial art class. If this class does not have a quota attendance by the twenty-ninth it will be dropped. I know there are many people who would like to go but are not sure as to when it begins or if this course is offered. I am hoping they will see this letter and come.

A STUDENT.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHERE CAN I get vocal lessons here, either free or for a very small amount? I feel that I have a really good voice and want it trained, but cannot afford an expensive private teacher.

Dear Martha Carr:

I MET A BOY last January at a show. Since then we have kept in touch with each other. About two months after we met he was drafted. Ever since he has been in the army we have been writing each other. I know he is in love with me and I am in love with him. He is 28 and expects soon to be out of the army. I am 20. We are engaged. Shall I wait for him? I know he will come to me when he gets out, and he should be out before many weeks. All these months I have not even talked to another fellow and I have been very lonesome waiting for him.

A LONE HEART.

I am sorry, Lone Heart, but you have me all mixed up! Are you engaged to this soldier boy or do you just think you are? It doesn't seem to me you know him very well when you have had only letters by way of communication for the greater part of this time. Has he definitely asked you to marry him, and suggested you name the day? If you are really engaged to him, of course you should wait for him; if you are not, there is no reason why you should continue to sit alone and mope for the rest of his period of service, when you might be going out and enjoying life. If he has never said the fatal words it is a mistake to take too much for granted.

A Vicious Circle

Child's Ordeal In Facing New Environment

By Angelo Patri

THESE are days of change. People change their work because the defense preparations call for extraordinary effort in fields that emergency opens. We must do what is needed and go where we are called. Families move into new surroundings, among strangers, people whose ways are not their ways. Of course the children go along and they too, must adjust themselves to the new situation.

It is easier for the younger children than for their parents and older brothers and sisters. The older one is, the greater number of associations with life he has formed. Those associations tie us to people and places and customs. Older people are disciplined by life, and if their adjustments are painful they manage to keep the grief to themselves most of the time. But the half-grown boys and girls are in a hard place.

The children who must break off their high school courses in the middle, go to another town, meet new people, new teachers, new courses, and new associates, are going to feel the strain. They have formed ties that go deep; they are not disciplined by experience and they are a bit bewildered.

TEACHERS AND heads of schools should make special efforts to reach these newcomers and make them feel wanted, liked, and at home among them. We find that a good way is to form groups of children—informally, no committees—friendly groups of children whose duty and pleasure it is to make the acquaintance of the newcomers and help them fit into their places.

The reason for the informal shifting of groups is the need for individual consideration. Each new student is a personality peculiar to itself and must be met, not by a fixed standard, but by the warm, human catch-as-catch can manner of youngsters. Somebody must stay close to each new student until he finds his own way and that somebody must be the one closest in sympathy with the newcomer.

We have alien children among us, homesick and lonely and afraid, trying to be brave, trying to stand high in the opinion of the American children about them. These children appeal to the heart of America for love, kindness and protection.

Sallee Forth—the La Gatta Girl

Story by Borden Chase

CHAPTER TWELVE.

THE Assistant Director's name is Frank Prospect. Sallee thought he had come to present her with a ticket back to North Bend. Instead, he gave her a real nice smile, and a confidential little wink. He claimed Mr. Brewster's bark is worse than his bite, and the boss really didn't mean half the things he said.

Sallee thought it was bad enough if Mr. Brewster only meant a quarter of the things he'd said. In fact, she'd settle for an eighth. And as fas as she was concerned, the sooner she could get back to North Bend the better she'd like it.

Frank Prospect can understand that. And he can also understand how a nice girl like Sallee Forth might get tangled up in a lot of mean publicity by Wiley Codger. He knows Codger well—too well! And this isn't the first time Frank has had trouble with birds of that sort. Beauty pageants attract them. And Sallee isn't the first girl to get hooked.

Hooked? Sallee didn't like the sound of that word. Did Frank Prospect believe those stories? Did he actually think Sallee was a friend of Wiley Codger? Because if he did . . . well, Sallee was all finished crying and now she had a few things to say!

Of course Frank didn't believe such a thing! One look at Sallee Forth was all he needed But still, she must watch her step. Once a girl starts to take favors from the public she also starts to live in a glass house. If she is willing to accept admiration she must pay for it with examination. A public figure is just what the name implies . . . a person who has exchanged the right of privacy for the advantages to be gained by publicity.

All of which is a bit confusing to Sallee at the moment. But the way Frank Prospect says it . . . well, it sounds nice. And when he smiles . . . "I wonder if he's just being nice because he works here, or if . . . ?"

Answers to Questions on Social Usage

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

IF ONE is not invited to a wedding and is neither a relative nor intimate friend, but simply a business associate of the bride's father, is it all right to send a wedding present? Under such circumstances should the present be sent before the wedding or afterward? My husband thinks it should go now without waiting, whereas, I feel that this may be the exception to the rule and we'd better wait. I have a curious feeling that sending it now may embarrass the family for not having invited us.

Answer: If you do not know the family at all and the reason for your sending a present therefore is obvious, I think it could be sent ahead of time as your husband suggests. On the other hand, if you know them well enough to have been included in a very general invitation, then I think you would be right in feeling that your present might seem to require an invitation, which if not sent by them will embarrass them and if sent by them will embarrass you!

In this case, it might be possible to send your gift on the day of the wedding which would be too late for them to send you an invitation and yet the gift would arrive in time to be placed among the bride's presents and to be shown to her before she goes away.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been asked to sing at a dinner which is to be in honor of an elderly man's birthday. Will you please tell me what kind of songs would be suitable for such an occasion?

Answer: Try to find out, if you can, those which are his favorites, or at least the type of songs he likes.

There are some quinces and pomegranates now on the market, though neither are very cheap.

An Erroneous Idea About an Opening Lead

By Ely Culbertson

MANY players seem to have the idea that the lead of partner's bid suit is a sort of ritual. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The opening lead should be selected on a logical, not a conventional, basis. Let us consider the following situation:

East, dealer.
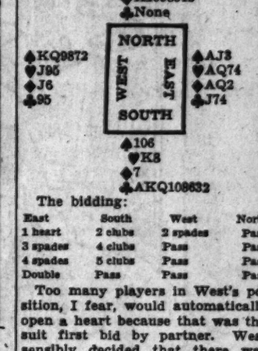
Match-point duplicate.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	2 clubs	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	4 clubs	Pass	Pass
4 spades	5 clubs	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Too many players in West's position, I fear, would automatically open a heart because that was the suit first bid by partner. West sensibly decided that there was greater safety in a spade opening. His partner had strongly supported spades and, therefore, there was every reason to feel that East had either the ace or jack, possibly both. Hence, a spade lead could hardly cost a trick, whereas a heart lead had little or nothing to recommend it.

On West's opening lead of the spade king, East made certain of a spade continuation by overtaking and returning the jack. When declarer's 10 fell on this play, West overtook the spade jack and shifted to the diamond jack. The king covered, East won and laid down the diamond queen. Declarer ruffed, but eventually had to concede two heart tricks.

Note that if a heart had been the opening lead, or if spades had been continued for three rounds, declarer could have saved an all important trick. He would have ruffed and led clubs until this situation was reached: Declarer would have the K-8 of hearts, the singleton diamond, and one club; dummy would have the K-10-9-8 of diamonds; East's hand at this point would be the A-Q of hearts and A-Q of diamonds. The lead of the last trump would make East's position highly uncomfortable. If he discarded his heart queen, declarer could lead a low heart. East then could cash the diamond ace, but would have to concede a trick to dummy's diamond king. If East discarded the diamond queen, declarer would lead a diamond, thus forcing a return from the A-Q of hearts.

Since the spade game would have been ice cold, and worth 600 odd points, the defenders had to defeat the five club contract three trick to get an excellent match-point score.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 28

A BIT of oil may be needed on the domestic waters today—if so apply it; be not annoyed, and likewise give no annoyance. Week ahead holds genuine opportunity for better understandings with loved ones and neighbors; watch all details.

Form These Habits

Train yourself to observe everything, little and big, as well as the average things of life with which you come in contact. But this is only a beginning, if what you want is true expansion of mental qualities and deeper understanding. Objective observation training is but the key to seeing the perspectives of time and eternity. Study the patterns, large and small of world history.

Your Year Ahead

Your year ahead from birthday today brings subtle changes, higher goals, strong emotions, with opportunities to profit from past and make new starts. But beware emotional decisions. Danger: Oct. 21-Nov. 22; April 25-May 4; Sept. 10-26.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29

Today's vibrations call for care in checking details and in directing properly the course of our thinking; logic may become distorted, facts ignored. Otherwise an excellent day for carrying forward old starts; deal with superiors in P. M.

Two Angles

Two men can have the same experience, but will draw from it widely differing conclusions, or lessons. At the extreme ends of learning would be the purely local, particular and single instance on the one hand, and on the other would be the universal, general and all-inclusive principle involved. The wise man sees both extremes and also the balance-point in the middle. Wisdom is balance.

Your Year Ahead

Your year ahead brings wider scope, more opportunity, if born on this date. Push your personal interests with those who count. Changes, and benefit from past from next May. Danger: Oct. 17-Nov. 22; April 27-May 6; Sept. 13-27.

How It Started
By Jean Newton

Why Do We Say, "The Cat Has Nine Lives?"

"A woman hath nine lives like a cat."

So wrote Heywood, about the year 1570, many authorities attributing to this line the earliest usage of the phrase.

It goes back, however, much further, indeed to the fables of the Brahmin philosopher Pilpay, also known as Bidpai.

Pilpay was a gymnosophist, a sect of philosophers said to have been founded in India by Alexander the Great.

They went about almost nude, were vegetarians, ascetic and spent their time contemplating the glories of nature.

Centuries before the Christian era, Pilpay wrote a story called "The Greedy and Ambitious Cat," in which he says:

"It has been the providence of nature to give this creature (the cat) nine lives instead of one."

It was not until Heywood's time that this work was translated and it is from this source undoubtedly that Heywood borrowed the phrase.

Contributing to its popularity and perpetuation was the circumstance that nine always has been a mystic number; also, the fact, familiar to all observers, that the cat is tenacious of life, apparently always landing right side up on well padded feet.

In ancient Egypt, Pasht or Bastet, catheaded goddess, was said to have nine lives.

Golden Griddles

Two cups flour, one-half cup yellow cornmeal, one tablespoon sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, two-thirds teaspoon salt, two egg yolks, one and one-half cups milk, two egg whites, beaten; two tablespoons shortening (melted).

Mix flour, cornmeal, sugar, baking powder, salt, yolks and milk. Beat until very smooth and creamy in appearance. Lightly mix in rest of ingredients. Pour into pitcher and pour onto hot griddle.

Spread baked griddles quickly with equal parts of honey and softened butter. Stack up, serve cut in wedge shaped servings. (Stack up four or five in each pile.)

Some folks may want more honey so have it handy.

SWOC Leader Says 11,000 Iron Ore and Coal Miners Will Join Walkout Against U. S. Steel Subsidiary Tomorrow.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 27 (AP).—The giant steel mills of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. were closed tonight by a strike of members of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (CIO).

Approximately 19,000 men are employed in manufacturing units at Fairfield, Bessemer and Ensley, all in this district.

The walkout followed an unsuccessful last-minute effort to postpone the general strike until tomorrow night. The SWOC voted the immediate walkout by acclamation a few minutes after Gov. Frank M. Dixon refused a union demand that state guard units be withdrawn.

T. C. I., with eight blast furnaces and 18 open hearths, was producing more than 200,000 tons of steel ingots per month, most of which was going into defense industries.

4500 Out at Ensley Plant.

Tonight's walkout followed by 24 hours a work stoppage at the company's Ensley works, involving 4500 men. Union sources said it resulted from grievances of long standing, including dissatisfaction with incentive wages.

Noel Beddow, SWOC chief in Alabama, urged the union to remain on the job in an address before the mass meeting at which the general strike vote was taken, but just as he ended, the telegram from the Governor arrived, was read, and the walkout ordered.

The telegram said:

"The State Guard was sent to Ensley to prevent bloodshed and will be kept there until these results are assured."

Beddow said he believed he could have averted the strike had the Governor's telegram not arrived.
